Is Calm As An Elm
Honor Ben Franklin
Terrible Chinese, But
He Just Kept On Going

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

Will Rogers would say, is writing on the train, traveling from Washington to New York.

Millions of Americans will be glad to learn that the president seemed in perfect health, full of energy, and, amid the Nicaragua-Mexico excitement, as calm as a Vermont elm.

WHAT appears to interest the president most now is internal improvement, projects for canals from the farms and factories to the sea, and development of unused waters for power and navigation, in particular development of the Colorado River.

PRESIDENT Coolidge speaks just so fast, and no faster. He knows every word that he is going to say before he says it. Words do not come to him, surprise him, as happens with others.

You can't hurry him, or choose his subject for him. And as for holding him back, when he means to go in a certain direction, why, to "draw up Niagara with an hook" would be child's play, compared with it.

HE'S a good president, first because he knows what he wants, and, second, because he knows what seven millions more than half of the voters, male and female, want. He knows what the others want also.

WE are becoming an old nation with a respectable distant past. Had Benjamin Franklin lived until this day he would have been 221 years old. Would you drink to his memory and that of the fine mother that made him? He was a great American, and busy. The "Benjamin Franklins," organized to honor his name, say he distinguished himself as "business man, inventor, printer, editor, author, statesman, diplomat, harmonizer, public servant, economist, philosopher, philanthropist, reformer."

QUITE a list, and also he was a good swimming teacher, making a living by it in England. Above all, he was wise. He lived on a few pennies a day, no meat, that he might save to buy books—not to buy a ticket to "the fight," dear young gentlemen of 1927.

THE best thing he ever said was: "The noblest question in the world is, what good may I do in it."

The next best thing, perhaps, was: A wise man will desire no more than what he may get justly, use soberly, distribute cheerfully, and leave contentedly."

CHINESE mobs are looting Christian churches. Too bad, and it fills us with horror. Americans, British, French and other travelers brought home all sort of loot from Chinese temples after the Boxer uprising. But it was different, the Chinese are heathens.

Chinese mobs have beaten American women, it is said, and abducted Christian Chinese girls from institutions. We cannot believe quite all you hear.

WORST of all, stories of Christians slaughtering Chinese babies are spread among mobs, rousing them to fatal fury. How can even the lowest fathom, we ask, spread or believe such monstrous lies?

BUT very good Christians in Austria, Russia and elsewhere have spread such lies about the Jewish people within a few years, causing massacres and instituting villainous legal charges based on alleged use of Christian children's blood in the Passover ritual.

We Christians can learn several things from the Chinese, but not humanity.

GEORGE YOUNG, a boy of 17, lived with his mother in Canada. She, widow, had $135. She gave the money to George, who has courage, and said he would swim the cold, one-mile wide, 21-mile wide channel from Catalina Island to the mainland, win William Wrigley, Jr.'s $25,000 and buy his mother a California home.

HE bought a motorcycle, started for California with what money he had left, beat 101 contestants that also wanted the Wrigley $25,000, and his mother will move to California.

OBSERVE, young gentlemen, that George Young explains it by saying: "I just kept going. I had cramps, in the cold water. But I turned over on my back and kicked the cramps out of my stomach. You don't suppose I expected to get $25,000 for walking around the block."

He kept going and kicked out the cramps, which represent discouragement in ordinary life, and he won. Note a note of it.

WHO IS BOSS OF CITY COUNCIL? MURPHY VICTOR

Clashes with Prettyman Over Postponement Order Given to City Clerk

CALLS SPECIAL SESSION

President Criticizes Finance Chairman for Calling Off Scheduled Meeting

War clouds, not of large proportions but nevertheless easily discernible, gathered over City Council last night as the result of a second postponement of the meeting called to enact the annual appropriation ordinance which is to designate how much money the various municipal offices and departments are to be allowed for 1927 operating costs.

The state of threatened belligerency resulted from a clash of authority between R. E. Prettyman, chairman of the finance committee, and Emery E. Murphy, president of council. Murphy, according to present indications, scored a victory and established himself securely as directing head of the city's legislative body.

Issues Order

Prettyman, who has had charge of preparation of the appropriation ordinance, learned late yesterday afternoon that City Solicitor George T. Geran was ill and would be unable to attend the council meeting called for last night. Believing that the solicitor's presence was necessary, Prettyman instructed City Clerk Stofer to notify councilmen that there would be no meeting until next Monday night.

Thereupon, President Murphy entered the scene. Declaring emphatically that as presiding officer he was the only person authorized to say when council should meet, he directed the clerk to send out notices for a session to take place Friday night.

To Meet Friday

So council will meet Friday night. Clerk Stofer decided that there was no question about Murphy's authority in the matter and as a consequence ignored Prettyman's instructions.

There was no reason why the appropriation ordinance should not have been acted upon last night, President Murphy asserted today. The figures have practically all been decided upon and legal blanks for the ordinance are available at the city auditor's office, so that there is no necessity of delaying action until the solicitor could be present, council's presiding officer declared.

Second Postponement

Last night's postponement was the second that has taken place since the appropriation problem has been under consideration. Last week action was delayed when it was announced that the finance committee had not been able to complete its work. President Murphy made no objections to that postponement, but he did object, with considerable emphasis, to calling off last night's session. More decisively, however, was his protest against having his authority usurped by Councilman Prettyman.

There are indications, however, that the incident will go down in council annals as merely a rather unpleasant misunderstanding and that harmony will prevail when council meets Friday night to take action on the appropriations.

"The call for Friday night's session will stand unchanged," Mr. Murphy declared today. "Council adjourned originally to pass on the appropriations and I do not intend to have the business delayed again."

Council will meet in regular semi-monthly session next Monday night and it was Prettyman's intention to have the appropriation ordinance submitted at that time. He will be prepared, however, to place it before the adjourned session Friday night, he stated today.

Reports on C. of C. Drive Indicate City Is Facing Unusually Bright Future

Citizens Rallying to Support of Organization with Memberships and Funds To Carry On Industrial Development Program, Chairmen Report

Convincing evidence that Marion is facing a future bright with assurance of marked growth and advancement and that community leaders are determined to make the most of these promising prospects is seen in reports of progress being made in the Marion Chamber of Commerce membership campaign under way this week.

Realizing that the city can not develop and advance to the full extent of its possibilities unless there is some organization to foster and direct the movement, leaders in all local lines of business and industry are giving wholehearted support to the campaign on behalf of the chamber of commerce, chairman of the 15 groups of membership solicitors report.

Membership renewals are being obtained without the slightest difficulty and in many instances are coming in to the chamber office without solicitation. Several of the large firms and companies, each holding several memberships, have contributed to the success of the campaign by increasing their representation, some having doubled their present membership totals.

Favorable Situation

This situation is much more favorable than conditions which prevailed in connection with other membership campaigns in former years, business men who have been active in the affairs of the organization since its earliest days state. In the past the work of obtaining renewals has been difficult, especially during periods when business and industrial conditions in the city were not very encouraging.

As a consequence, the enthusiastic support being given the campaign in progress this week is taken as evidence of a pronounced feeling of optimism over Marion's prospects for the next few years and enthusiastic approval of the work of the chamber of commerce as the chief agency in bringing about this favorable situation.

The communication from Clifford A. Owens, local industrial leader, published yesterday, has brought out the fact that it was the chamber of commerce which rescued Marion from the state of depression which prevailed during the early part of 1926.

As the result of several local factories having suspended operations, the first months of last year saw the city passing through a slump which was regarded as the most serious experienced here since the war. Merchants and other business men were "down in the mouth" and made a bad state of affairs worse by declaring that there were no signs of improvement in sight.

This situation continued until suddenly the community spirit was given new life by the announcement that the plant of the Fairbanks Steam Shovel

SPEAKER TRAINING

Ex-Pilot of Indians Anticipates His Vindication

Cleveland, Jan. 20—In anticipation of being vindicated by Commissioner K. M. Landis, of all connection with an alleged "thrown" baseball game, Tris Speaker has gone into training to recondition himself for re-entering the game.

The former pilot of the Indians today began a two-hour grind in a local gymnasium to limber his muscles for the baseball diamond next season.

Speaker refused to discuss his case, except to reiterate his previous statements that he expects complete exoneration when American League officials meet in Chicago next Monday.

SEARCH FOR BODY

Railroad Worker Pulled from Bridge and Drowned

Circleville, Jan. 20—Search was being made today for the body of William Truex, 21, St. Paul, this county, who was drowned when he fell from the top of a bridge over Big Walnut Creek south of Ashville late Wednesday.

Employed by the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad, Truex was using a pike pole, trying to save new trestle work from being carried away by the raging waters. The pole became stuck in a large cake of ice which pulled him off the bridge. His body was carried down stream.

COUNTY TO GET $40,705 ABOVE IN 1926 QUOTA

Increase in Appropriation Is Shown in Legislation Approved by County Commissioners

DRAW ON OTHER FUNDS

Practically All of Added Fund Needed for Debt Service and Interest

Appropriations to run the county offices and enterprises during 1927 total $40,705 more than in 1926, according to the figures taken from the appropriation legislation approved by the county commissioners.

Practically all of this increase in the appropriations is caused by the large increase necessary in the interest and sinking fund needed to meet interest charges and pay off bonds coming due this year. Last year $118,070 went into the sinking fund to meet interest and bond charges. This year the county must put $183,594 in the sinking fund to pay interest charges and retire bonds coming due this year.

Drawing on Funds

To meet this increase in the appropriations the commissioners are drawing on balances in the various funds built up during 1926, to augment the income from taxes and other sources.

The county finished the year in fine financial shape, the appropriation figures show. According to the report of County Auditor B. C. Decker the county funds had a balance of $202,387 on Jan. 1. Last year the county started the year with half that balance, or $100,770.

Tax Income Smaller

However, income from taxes is figured smaller this year than last by commissioners. This year the county is estimated to collect $368,578 from taxes, while in 1926 the county got $420,590 from taxes. Revenue from other sources, such as special assessments, licenses and fees is also figured to be smaller this year than last year. In 1926 the county got $120,500 from such assessments and fees, while this year the fees are estimated at $120,000.

Numerous Transfers

Comparisen of the appropriations of the various county funds for this year and last year is not entirely accurate because money is often transferred from one fund to another during the year, leaving one fund with practically no balance and the other with a balance which it got from the first fund. This tranfer of funds is often necessary during the year to meet emergencies and contingencies, or to bolster up funds for which appropriations and estimates of work have been too low.

However, a comparison of the appropriations made for various funds for this year will show those in which increase have been granted and those which have been cut from last year.

Increased appropriations have been granted in the general county fund, which covers all salaries, building maintenance and other items of gen-

HOPE OF RESCUING BOY ON LAKE ICE ABANDONED

Darkness Overtakes Coast Guard Boats; Believe He Slipped to Death

Cleveland, Jan. 20—Hope virtually was abandoned here today of rescuing a boy who floated out into Lake Erie last night on a cake of ice.

The youth was seen signalling for help about a mile from the shore. Coast guard boats and fire tugs ploughed through ice choked waters in an effort to save him but darkness overtook them.

Although the search was maintained all night, it is believed that the youth succumbed to the cold and slipped from his icy craft.

Police are making a check in an effort to establish the missing boy's identity.

ARBITRATION IS STILL REGARDED AS BEST POLICY

Both United States and Mexico Must Advance Slowly in Matter

PRESIDENT'S VIEWS

Coolidge and Calles Have Widely Separated Interpretations of Controversy

Washington, Jan. 20—Settlement of the land-law controversy with Mexico by peaceable negotiation, rather than resort to an open break, was still regarded as the paramount policy of the administration today, despite Secretary of State Kellogg's denial that he had committed this government to arbitration.

Secretary Kellogg's latest statement was coincident with reports from Mexico City quoting President Calles as saying while he favored peaceable adjustment there would be no arbitration of the Mexican Constitution itself.

In diplomatic quarters here, these statements were taken as a necessary part of the diplomatic game. Neither government is desirous of exhibiting any signs of receding from the position it has assumed in the controversy, and both governments have to contend with domestic opposition of more or less strength. Hence, it is pointed out the approach to arbitration must be cautious.

As Coolidge Sees It

President Coolidge has summarized the Mexican problem as embracing the question, "Shall the property of American citizens be confiscated without its being paid for?"

Put bluntly on that basis, the controversy does not lend itself to arbitration, for this government cannot put itself in the position beforehand, at least, of being willing to concede that the position is open to doubt.

Calles' Summary

President Calles has summarized the controversy thus: "Has Mexico the right to adopt a constitution?"

On that basis, the Mexican government similarly cannot concede that the question is open to arbitration, for to do so would put the Calles regime in the position of being willing to arbitrate Mexico's sovereignty. Adoption of a constitution is an attribute of sovereignty which no government could relinquish.

The Robinson resolution, urging the state department to arbitrate, reposes in the foreign relations committee. It is believed the resolution will command a majority of the committee any time it is brought to a vote.

EVA TANGUAY.

New York, Jan. 20—Eva Tanguay, famous vaudeville actress who used to prance back and forth on the stage singing "I Don't Care, I Don't Care," does care now—and lots. She cares so much that she's going to be married. And her husband is a handsome youth, 25 years old — Allan Parade, Hungarian pianist and Eva's accompanist.

Eva's age is a secret. Along Broadway they say she is 40, but she said today that she's not telling.

"I don't care—I love Allan, and we're going to be married," she said. "That's definite."

The date of the marriage is a secret, too.

This will be Eva's second marriage. Ten years ago she married John Ford, dancer in vaudeville, but divorced him. It will be Parade's first marriage.

L. V. RENZENBERGER IS VICTIM OF APPENDICITIS

Marion Steam Shovel Co. Photographer Stricken After Brief Illness

Lester Vere Renzenberger, 29, prominent young Marion lodge man and World War veteran and photographer for the Marion Steam Shovel Co., died at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at City Hospital, having been removed there from his home, Highland pk, when his condition became serious. Death was due to appendicitis from which he had suffered since Monday.

Mr. Renzenberger was well known in Marion lodge circles, having been a member of the Masonic Lodge No. 70, Kadgar Grotto, Knights of Pythias No. 402, and of the American Legion during the years 1922, 1923 and 1924. He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church and sang in the choir of that church until the time of his death. He had been employed as a photographer at the Marion Steam Shovel Co. for 12 years. He attended the army training camp at Cincinnati and served in the World War.

Born in Marion

Mr. Renzenberger was born in this city July 16, 1897 and had lived here all his life. He was the only son of Frank Renzenberger, of the Highland pk, formerly of Waldo, and Mrs. Ethel Page, 208 N. Prospect-st, formerly of Bucyrus, Penn. Both parents survive as well as a large number of friends.

Funeral services will be held at the Calvary Evangelical Church at 10 o'clock Saturday morning in charge of Rev. C. L. Allen, pastor of the church, and Rev. Raymond W. Reitley, pastor of First Presbyterian Church.

Members of the American Legion will conduct a military service at that time and members of the Knights of Pythias Lodge, No. 402, will administer the ritualistic burial service of the order. The firing squad will be furnished by the Flemming Guard Detachment. Burial will be made in Marion Cemetery. The body may be viewed at the parents' home, 208 N. Prospect-st, until time for the funeral.

REGULATION OF OHIO BARBERS ASKED IN BILL

Cincinnati Man Proposes Licensing of Members of Tonsorial Trade

Columbus, Jan. 20—Regulation of Ohio barbers is sought in a bill introduced by Rep. H. S. Marshall, Cincinnati, pending in the house of representatives here today.

The bill provides for creation of a state commission to license barbers and to regulate this industry. Examinations would be provided for persons wishing to work as barbers. All present barbers would have to register after July 1, next, those not meeting requirements specified in the measure being compelled to take an examination.

A bill, providing for uniform method in levying taxes in local political subdivisions and for preparation of budgets on the "Pay-as-you-go" basis, was introduced by Rep. C. H. Jones, Jackson. The bill is iddorsed by the joint legislative committee on taxation and economy. It is a companion measure to the Krueger bill, now pending in the house, providing a uniform system for the issuance of bonds by these various local political subdivisions.

Increases Fine

The Jones bill does away with the 10-mill interior limitation of the Smith one-percent tax act, provides an exterior limitation of 15 mills for combined tax levies, excepting those placed outside the limitation by a vote of the people, and restricts budgets to funds available.

A bill, by Rep. O. S. Creighton, Marietta, increases from $25 to $50 the minimum fine which may be imposed upon a drunken auto driver. It also provides that such a driver may be deprived of driving rights for six months, in case of first offense, and be imprisoned in the penitentiary from one to five years if convicted a second time.

Itinerant jewelers in Ohio may disappear, if a bill, introduced by Rep. Harry Davidson, Akron, becomes a law. The Davidson bill requires that jewelry sold at auction must be owned by the vendor six months prior to its sale, that the jeweler must be located in his place of business a year, or more, and limits him to one such sale annually. The sale must not last longer than 30 days. A penalty ranging from $100 to $500 is provided for violators of the proposed law.

Would Abandon Canal

Other measures pending in the legislature today include:

In the senate:

By Sen. George H. Bender, Cuyahoga County, a resolution providing for submission at the November election of a proposed amendment to the Ohio constitution exempting automobiles from all taxes except license tag and gasoline taxes.

By Sen. D. H. Dearmond, Butler County, authorizing abandonment for canal and hydraulic purposes that portion of the Miami and Erie canal between Middletown and St. Bernard, Cincinnati. It is proposed to use the canal for a super-highway.

In the house:

By Rep. Grant P. Ward, Franklin County, defining as public utilities companies, and corporations, engaging, directly or indirectly, in supplying, for lighting, heating or power purposes, electricity, natural gas or oil, and transporting water, steam or air through pipes, or tubing, to customers, directly or indirectly, for heating or cooling purposes. The bill is designed to authorize the state utilities commission to regulate and fix rates for such concerns including super-power electric transmission and Pipe line companies.

By Rep. J. E. Finefrock, Stark County, a resolution providing for recodification of Ohio's school laws. It is similar to the Comings' resolution now pending in the senate.

To Isadora Duncan, American dancer, or Sophia Tolstoy, granddaughter of the famous novelist, will go the fortune of Serge Yessenin, eccentric poet, who met death at his own hand. A Moscow court has written to the dancer at Paris asking her to state whether she was divorced from the poet at the time of his death, to assist in settling the question as to whether she or Tolstoy's kin was his wife at the time he died. If Isadora says that she wasn't she will become the heir of his estate.

Marion Rural Mail Carrier, First in U. S. to Use Auto on Route, Subject to Pension, But Disdains Retirement

Although he is past the age when many government employes retire, has traveled more than 103,031 miles and delivered more than 150,000 pieces of mail, D. W. Spaulding, rural mail carrier, has asked and received his second two-year extension of service. Spaulding lives on Duluth-av.

Spaulding started on Route No. 3 June 1, 1900. He first used a horse and wagon, then an automobile. Spaulding is credited with being the first man in the United States to use an auto on a rural mail route. He says that when he first started to used the machine he had over 13 miles of dirt roads on his route, and now they are all improved stone piles. During all his driving Spaulding has not had an accident, and has only missed six weeks work and this was due to a broken arm. When Spaulding first started it took all day and sometimes until late at night to make the route. Now it takes only about six hours.

Had To Count Mail

During the first years of his service carriers were required to count the number of pieces of mail they handled each day.

"I never will forget the first day's run," Spaulding says. "It was exceptionally large at that time, as it contained 220 pieces. Now the average is from 500 to 600 pieces daily, with an increase to nearly 1,000 pieces at Christmas times."

When asked about the changes along his route he says the one that strikes his attention is the fact that outside of two families the heads of the home have changed, either through death or that the people have moved away. "It seems that no additional homes have been built, although several new ones replace the old ones," he said. There are 146 families living on the route which he serves every day.

Spaulding says one of the greatest nuisances which a rural mail carrier has to put up with is that of people dropping pennies in the box to cover postage. "In the winter one has to take his glove off and fish down in the box to find them," he points out. "Then, too, most of the boxes are either so low that one nearly has to get out to reach them, or are so high that you have to find them by touch alone. It would save the postman a lot of trouble and worry if people would lay the exact amount of postage on top of the letter in the box. Then he could pick it all up in one grab."

Yesterday, according to Spaulding, was one of the worst days to drive he has experienced for some time, due to the icy roads. In reply to the question of how he liked his work, he has this to say: "Well, I put in my application for a second time extension and have just received it. I feel as fit as I did 20 years ago and may put my application in for the third extension when this one expires."

...nois Appointee Patiently Awaits Decision on His Demand for Seat; New Poll Reveals 48-to-37 Opposition on Taking of Oath

Washington, Jan. 20—Unleashing a flood of oratory in the senate, administration leaders this afternoon launched a final drive to talk Col. Frank L. Smith, Republican, of Illinois, into being allowed to take his oath as a United States senator.

With Smith halted at the portals and knowing that a majority of the senate is waiting to bar him, Republican spokesmen sought to gain him admission by the force of argument. Led by Senator Watson, Republican, of Indiana, they demanded the senate respect the sovereign power of Illinois to name a senator of its own choice.

Washington, Jan. 20—Poised upon the doorstep of the senate but unable to find the welcome mat, Col. Frank L. Smith of Illinois today patiently awaited a decision on his demand to enter the senate as a United States senator.

Although Smith appeared certain of ultimate victory, administration forces were wielding a tremendous influence to gain him temporary admission to the senate. As the debate entered its second day, a recheck of an earlier poll indicated Smith would be denied the oath of office by a vote of 48 to 37. Unless there develops a last minute change, even his supporters conceded defeat.

Attack Gifts

The battle over admitting Smith found the old Democratic-Insurgent coalition revived and uniting against him. Their attack was based chiefly on the Reed campaign committee's report that Smith accepted $207,000 gifts from public utilites of Illinois in his primary campaign while serving as chairman of the state's utilities commission, that his personal expenditures were $287,000—far more than authorized—and that in all, $450,000 was spent in his behalf. With this record in the primary, the coalition contended that Smith was not entitled to evet become a member of the senate.

The administration threw its support to Smith and its spokesmen contended that he was entitled to his oath of office, even if his alleged primary misdeeds justified his expulsion later. The Republican leaders argued that the senate had no right to reject the credentials given by Gov. Len Small but rather was compelled to accept them on their face.

Debate Is Bitter

The debate meanwhile developed considerable bitterness. The insurgents particularly were angered by the attitude of reguiar Republicans, pointing out that the senators who are now defending Smith were the first to demand that one of their own group—Senator Nye of North Dakota—should be denied the oath a year ago.

Both factions expressed a willingness to decide the issue by a vote before adjournment tonight. Unless there are last minute changes, it was apparent Smith would be denied the oath. The first day's debate, however, showed that Senators Borah, Republican of Idaho, King, Democrat, of Utah, and Steck, Democrat of Iowa, who were reported opposed to Smith, had been won over to the plan to give him the oath. While this reduced the majority against Smith, it still left him a half dozen votes short of a seat in the senate.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT
COUNTY FUNDS

eral county expense, the Children's Home fund, bridge and road fund, building fund, soldiers' relief, election fund and interest and sinking fund.

Poor Fund Cut

Cuts in appropriations have been made in the poor fund, the blind relief fund, mothers' pension fund, ditch fund, agricultural society fund and dog and kennel fund.

To keep the general county fund near that of last year the commissioners have shifted the money used last year in the general appraisal of property in the county to the buildings and grounds fund, and this fund takes a large jump this year.

The general reappraisal of property in the county cost the taxpayers $11,800. This year the commissioners appropriated only $3,250 for the appraisal of property.

Buildings Fund

In the buildings and grounds fund the commissioners have put $28,134 this year, in anticipation of some improvements to the courthouse which will provide more space there. Record rooms in the offices of the treasurer, auditor, recorder, cler of courts and probate court are crowded beyond the limits and the commissioners are now planning on lopping off a portion of the auditorium space of the Common Pleas Court room and making it into office space. This money will come from the buildings and grounds fund, which is being built up this year.

Executive Fund

The general executive fund is cut from $50,925 in 1926 to $49,280 this year. Sheriff Deal gets a slight increase in each of the two funds which he handles, the sheriff's office fund going from $8,460 last year to $8,785 this year, while the correction fund goes from $14,735 last year to $15,100 this year.

The miscellaneous charity fund also is increased this year from $12,400 to $17,450. The general engineering fund is cut from $17,000 to $16,020.

The Agricultural Society went in the hole $56.60 last year, according to the county auditor's figures, and the appropriation for this fund is cut this year making curtailment imperative in that fund. The society got $4,000 last year, and will get only $3,801 this year.

Considerable pruning was done by the commissioners in going over the requests from the heads of the various departments, and in balancing up the appropriations to keep them within the estimated income of the county for the year.

"MYSTERY MAN" TAKES STAND IN NORRIS TRIAL

D. L. Redmond Is First Defense Witness in Sensational Murder Case

Courtroom, Austin, Tex., Jan. 20—D. L. Redmond, "Mystery Man" who showed D. E. Chipps, lumberman, the way to Rev. J. Frank Norris' study in the First Baptist Church at Fort Worth, where Chipps was shot to death by the pastor, was the first witness for the defense in the trial of Rev. Norris on a murder charge today.

Redmond testified he was passing near the church when Chipps asked the way to Norris' office. Redmond showed Chipps the way, he said, and followed the lumberman up the flight of stairs in the church building.

Chipps opened the door to the study and entered while Redmond went into an adjoining office, Redmond testified. Redmond heard several pistol shots, he declared, and ran to the study where he saw another man pick something from the floor of the ante-room. Redmond said he ran back into the office where he had been, but came out again in a few seconds.

Denies Seeing Woman

Touching on the story told by Mrs. Roxie Parker, state witness, that she was near the study door and saw Rev. Norris shoot Chipps as the latter was leaving, Marvin Simpson of defense counsel asked Redmond if he saw a woman in the corridor at any time. Redmond said he did not.

Promises of another day of sensational disclosures in the trial today swelled the crowd of spectators.

Every move of defense attorneys was being followed closely today as they continued to build up their contention that Rev. Norris killed Chipps, only after he had threatened to kill Norris.

Meacham Present

H. C. Meacham, Mayor of Fort Worth, and close friend of Chipps, also was in the witness room this morning ready for a call to the stand as a witness in behalf of his arch-enemy, the pastor.

Chipps was slain when he went to Rev. Norris in an effort to have the minister discontinue pulpit attacks on Mayor Meacham.

FRENCH HOPE TO GET DEBT ACCORD MODIFIED

Government Has Had Correspondence with American State Department, Claim

Washington, Jan. 20—The French government has had some confidential correspondence with the state department relative to possible modification of the Mellon-Berenger debt accord, it was reported here today. The American debt funding commission is the only agent that now has authority to modify the agreement. It expires by statute next month, and after that any negotiations must be conducted through the state department.

Congress, however, would have to sanction any change in the existing agreement. The house has already ratified the pact, but it has been held up in the senate awaiting action by the French Parliament for more than a year.

REV. A. W. SWAN IS SPEAKER AT LUNCHEON CLUB

Kiwanis Club Committees for Year Are Announced by President Stengel

Rev. A. W. Swan, pastor of the Forest Lawn Presbyterian Church, talked Thursday noon to the members of the Marion Kiwanis Club on the interesting subject of "Money." The immaterial power of money, which in itself cannot build a building, move a railroad train, or bring the radio to speak, but in the hands of man can bring these things about, was the angle of "Money" on which Reverend Swan talked.

Money is a psychic force, he said, and its use and usefulness depends solely on the trust and faith of the human beings who handle it. As mechanical inventions are but the extension and development of parts of the human body, so money is but the extension and development of the personality of the persons in whose hands it is. The projection of this personality through money can cause the carrying out of plans at a long distance, or can be the instrument of relief for suffering in a distant land.

Sacred Trust

All these points brought out by Reverend Swan led up to his plea in closing to regard all money transactions as a sacred trust. Money is the bond that holds society together, he said, and the failure to live up to the standards of integrity and honesty that should surround all transactions should be regarded as a breach of faith and trust which modern society imposes on everyone.

All Kiwanians were informed before the meeting today of the appointment of committees for the year by Dr. F. A. Stengel, president of the club.

Co. which had been standing idle for months, had been purchased by John D. Owens and his son Clifford A., and would be operated by two new industrial concerns.

Organization of the Alloy Steel Co. and the General Excavator Co. followed and these two concerns, now operating in the Fairbanks plant, are expected eventually to rank among Marion's largest industries. Both are steadily growing and there are predictions that before the lapse of a great many months, the number of workmen will be near the 1,000 mark.

All of this is generally known to the public but the public has not been aware that the chamber of commerce, and particularly its executive head, George B. Knapp, are entitled to the credit for having started the movement which finally brought about the establishing of these new industries, industrial leaders point out.

Mr. Knapp, investigation has shown, brought the Fairbanks plant to the attention of John D. and Clifford A. Owens and urged them to purchase it. After interesting them in the project, he took complete charge of negotiations until the purchase was finally consummated and a location was provided for the Alloy Steel Co. and the General Excavator Co., which were organized shortly afterward.

This was easily the most important industrial development in Marion last year and is regarded by many local business men as the greatest event of its kind since the Erie railroad shops were moved here from Galion.

In addition to this important event, which started Marion forward again and changed an era of gloom to one of good cheer, the Cambier of Commerce under Mr. Knapp's direction completed negotiations for two smaller industrial concerns to be moved here from other cities and handled numerous other matters of importance and benefit to the community.

All of this was accomplished with comparatively limited resources. The Chamber has mapped out a two-year program of similar development work which it hopes to carry into execution, but which can not be done unless the membership drive under way this week culminates successfully.

Stop a Little Cold and there IS no Big Cold

SOME day scientists will know the cause of colds; but until that day comes we are sure of one thing: "To avoid a BIG cold stop a little one."

For all colds, little or big, the following treatment has been found effective in millions of cases: (1) A day's rest. (2) A laxative. (3) A light diet. (4) Vicks rubbed on throat and chest.

Vicks medicated vapors, released by the body heat, are inhaled direct to the air passages; at the same time Vicks acts like a poultice, drawing out the soreness and pain.

Use this treatment at the first sign of every little cold and big colds will be almost unknown to you.

There's one thing we like about Senator Borah; he's so dependable. He can always be found on the opposite side.

Announcement is made that the D. A. Schulte Retail Stores company has purchased Huyler's, Inc. More sweet stuff, soon, for Marion.

One manifest trouble with some radio programs is that there is too much announcer and too little program.

We do not wish to be unduly possimistic, but we simply can't evade the fear that, following her divorce, Lita will go back to elevating the screen.

The latest report on "Ma" Ferguson's clemency record was 3,450 convicts released, but the statisticians have probably missed a few.

Young George Young, the successful Catalina channel swimmer, is being deluged with offers of vaudeville and movie engagements. They know he can act because he has shown that he can swim.

Colorado's new governor is said to be opposed to freak legislation. For what purpose does he imagine legislators are elected, anyway?

The annual need for medicinal whisky is placed at 10,000,000 gallons annually. At a pint for ten days, that means an awful lot of us are going to have ten-day periods of sickness yearly.

The people of the smaller cities and villages used to wonder how city people were able to stay up so late, but that, of course, was before the day of the radio.

We have received a copy, neatly bound in cloth, of Governor Gifford Pinchot's last message to the Pennsylvania legislature, which we assume is being distributed solely for the benefit of the tax-payers of the Keystone state.

It's a heap sight easier to understand present-day restlessness since Paul Whiteman has explained that "there are 1,000,000 saxophone players in the world."

Thornton W. Burgess says "the hardest thing in the world is to be funny all the time." Is this a modest admission of success or a reluctant confession of failure?

Judge Cavanagh, of Chicago, says: "Send farmers and business men to your legislatures for the time being at least and omit the lawyers, who compose about one-third of your legislatures, so the proper laws for the punishment of crime can be enacted." Doesn't look fair. How are lawyers going to secure acquittals if there aren't laws they can beat?

Aha, Girls! The Road to Health!

The girls are getting a lot of advice these days. We can not speak of the quality, but the volume is manifest.

A few days ago, Mrs. Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hall, the British champion of bobbed hair and short skirts, addressing a gathering at Lancaster, Pennsylvania, warned the girls against transparent silk stockings, high heels and rouge, pronouncing them the worst evils of modern times. She also warned against the corset, saying that "Catherine de Medici committed a greater crime when she invented the corset than she did in the Massacre of St. Bartholomew's Day."

We do not exactly get the occasion for her diatribe against the corset. It looks a lot like raking up an evil past and gone. Nor did we, at the time, understand where rouge and the lipstick could work physical injury. Of course her objection to sheer silk stockings is that they do not afford sufficient protection to the legs and she indicts high heels for the injury they do to the feet.

But now Dr. Charles V. Craster, of Newark, New Jersey, bobs up with an explanation of the evils worked by rouge and the lipstick, particularly the latter. The doctor, who is the health officer of his home city, sprang into fame recently by coming out as a champion of sauerkraut—of the solid form as a diet and the liquid form as a drink. The doctor explains that when a girl plasters her lips with her lipstick, microbes are attracted to the cosmetic. The girl wets her lips frequently with her tongue and carries millions of microbes from her lips to her system, thus breeding disease. "If you would be healthy," is the doctor's advice to the girls, "leave the lipstick on the drug store shelves."

The corset has been practically abandoned so enough of that. Thus the way to health for the girls is to wear bobbed hair and short skirts, thicker stockings, shoes with sensible heels, eat sauerkraut and drink the juice and cut out the lipstick. Such is the combined expert opinion of Great Britain and America.

The road to health is so plainly marked and easy of following that the girls will be utterly without excuse if they longer transgress against health. Still, nevertheless and notwithstanding it is not impossible that they will continue to do more or less transgressing.

Rather Moderate for His Kind.

Professor Carlton J. H. Hayes, of Columbia university, has aroused a flood of criticism by a talk made by him at a luncheon in New York City, recently, in which he referred ironically to patriotic symbols and organizations, derided the "cult of flag worship" and provoked laughter by a reference to "the kissing of the Liberty bell" as it was taken across the country by rail.

Commenting on Hayes' talk, Captain George L. Darte, adjutant general of the Military Order of the World War and a member of the National Flag association, declared that Hayes ought to be "kicked out of the university bodily."

"Hayes belongs to that group," Captain Darte said, "that raises the red flag in time of peace and the white flag in time of war. He is a professor at Columbia and in his work is in daily contact with young men and women in the formative periods of their lives. If he promulgates the doctrines of disrespect to the flag and the Liberty bell as symbols of independence or attempts to decry or belittle nationalism, putting it secondary to internationalism, in his classes he is much too dangerous a man to be permitted to handle the education of the youth of today.

"He belongs to a type that is too prevalent among our college professors today. I believe that the first thing President Nicholas Murray Butler should do is to kick Hayes out of the university bodily. He is no fit teacher for students."

Rabbi Herbert S. Goldstein, president of the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America and rabbi of the Institutional synagogue, also took issue with Professor Hayes.

"The greatest menace to American life today," said Rabbi Goldstein, speaking at the Israel Orphan asylum, "is the college professor who is breeding a spirit of irreverence everywhere in the land.

"We need more of the ceremonial in the civic, social and religious life of America. We doff our hats to the lady as a social ceremony; we raise our voices in prayer and thanksgiving as a religious ceremony expressing the idea of fellowship and gratefulness to God, and so, too, we raise our hands in pledge to the flag as a civic ceremony expressing the idea of loyalty."

We will go right along with both these gentlemen in their castigation of this Columbia college professor up to Captain Darte's suggestion that President Nicholas Murray Butler should "kick Hayes out of the university bodily." That's asking entirely too much of the president of any of our big colleges of today. They naturally wouldn't want to show any partiality, and if they started to kick out all their professors who make slighting references to the flag, patriotism, loyalty and religion, to say nothing of those who deride nationalism and extol internationalism, it would be entirely too much of a physical strain on men softened by long years at sedentary pursuits.

Today many of our colleges are recognized as hotbeds of atheism, disloyalty, socialism—if not communism—and internationalism. If we are not mistaken, the forty-four professors who came out in an utterance, about ten days since, which urged what amounted to the cancellation of the debts owed to this country by European governments, were members of the faculty of Columbia university. We are not referring to this because of any prejudice we hold against Columbia, because we believe it will average up fairly so far as nationalism is concerned with the majority of the eastern colleges, but merely to illustrate the influences to which college boys and girls are submitted. Nor are we surprised at the utterances of this particular Columbia professor, whose slighting references to the flag have aroused resentment. As a matter of fact, we are rather surprised that he was so moderate in his utterance—that is, of course, so moderate for one of his kind.

The proposal of the United States Shipping board to make the Leviathan the finest ship afloat recalls to us the fact that we have at hand literature of the Emergency Fleet corporation setting out without any qualification whatever that she is.

The price of admission to the Monte Carlo casino has been raised to what in American money is the equivalent of thirty cents, the probable idea being to make tourists look that way whether they play or not.

Of course, even ideal winter weather such as Marion's is bound to be marred occasionally by a day like yesterday, but such days, the outside world should understand, are the rare exceptions. As a rule our winter is most dependable and in that respect in a class by itself.

"There is no word in the dictionary more vulgarized," says William C. Poole, "than the word 'greatness.'" We do not know Bill personally, but we will say this for him; he's capable of talking good horse sense.

Now that the supreme court of Tennessee has ordered remitted the $100 fine assessed against young Mr. Scopes for teaching evolution in the public schools of that state in violation of the law against the teaching of evolution, which the court held constitutional, young Mr. Scopes says he never broke the law for the reason that he never taught evolution, which naturally sets us guessing whether he is planning to break into the movies or vaudeville.

Is Mr. Green, Also, Nervous?

Let the internationalists, the pacifeists, the parlor pinks, the communists, the red influences at the helm of the Council of Churches and all other enemies of our government refer to Mr. Kellogg as Nervous Nellie, or whatever it is they call him, if they will, but they'll have some difficulty in persuading the country that there's any nervousness about President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, when he says, as he did recently, "Organized labor today is battling continuously with a force—communism—which has pitted itself against not only labor, but against all the other groups of society and even the American government."

OLD FAITHFUL.

Early Care for Vigorous Bodies.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Every new mother requires a certain amount of instruction regarding the care of her baby. In this life most things are settled on "general principles." We do "the best we can," or may say regarding one of our acts, "That's good enough."

We can't deal with a baby this way. Accurate, regular, unremitting care must be given the baby or it will not thrive.

Knock-knees, bowlegs, defective sight, impaired hearing, low vitality and defective mentality are a few of the blemishes which result from wrong feeding or bad physical habits. You would not willingly or knowingly afflict your baby with one or more of these defects.

Fresh air every baby must have. Day and night there must be pure air. Just because a baby is tiny is no reason why it can be tucked away in a closet, regardless of air supply.

Did you ever notice the beds in the cottages of Holland? They are bunks in cubby holes back of the chimney. Actually there are doors on some of the cupboards. If they are closed at night I don't see how enough air can be admitted to sustain life.

Don't put your baby in such a place as this. No matter how young or how little, the infant must have abundant air space. It is a scientific fact that a baby born in a house of six rooms has twice the chance to survive that a baby has born in a house of three rooms.

Of course, the larger house indicates greater income and more of the privileges of life. But also the larger house is an airier and more desirable place for a baby to live.

More important than the place the baby sleeps, if anything can be more important than that, is the quality of food, the manner of its preparation and the regularity of the feeding.

No baby can thrive unless it is properly fed. It can not be properly fed by an uninstructed mother. At some time or other the expectant mother must be told these things. But, better still, if the mother can be shown just how to do for her baby the things that must be accurately done, then she will feel safer to proceed with her delicate task.

Your doctor will be glad to explain all these matters. The nurse will show you exactly what to do. In the hospital, the clinic, the baby health station or the mission can be found a reliable teacher of infant feeding.

If the mother is privileged to nurse her baby, that infant is most fortunate. So long as breast feeding continues, all the mother need learn, is about the frequency of meals. That simplifies the problem.

Bottle feeding is quite another thing. This necessitates knowledge about sterilizing all the utensils used, heating the milk, adding the ingredients to make the cow's milk correspond to mother's milk and the way to keep the feedings after they are bottled.

The purpose of this article is to impress on the new mother the great importance of definite and detailed information about her precious baby. When once she understands that slipshod methods will not do, then we may be sure the right way will be found, no matter what sacrifices have to be made.

The mother job is the hardest, the most important and the best job in the world. To make it at all easy the mother must be thoroughly drilled. She must find a way to get this training. Then her baby will thrive.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Keep going and you keep alive. Keep working and you have no time left to wear yourself out with worry. Voltaire, probably most brilliant mind of the eighteenth century, worked as few men have worked. He wrote ninety-eight volumes. Cursed with poor health he lived to be eighty-three. He did his best writing and his most powerful work when he was past eighty.

Coming back to Paris after years of absence, Voltaire, riding in his coach, was followed by 100,000 persons. Historians say 600,000 stood along the streets. They paid tribute to the dominating power of an intellect.

Be occupied, said Voltaire. Dig in your garden. This is happiness.

Not many years ago only a few went to college. Statistics just out show the greater colleges and universities of America to number their students in astonishing figures. Ten or twelve or fifteen thousand in a single university. Everett Dean Martin, in a new book, "The Meaning of a Liberal Education," says: "At no time since the thirteenth century has the desire for knowledge so nearly approached a mass movement."

As far as college machinery and the desire to go to school is concerned the twentieth century is a new renaissance. We are in the midst of a revival of learning or at least the revival of a desire to learn. Now is the time to look to our colleges, our curriculums, our college presidents. Do we know what education is all about—or what it ought to be all about? Do we know what to teach young men and young women? How many school teachers know how to teach?

Harry Collins Spillman is right. The education worth while is the education which filters through a personality.

Let's no pick our college presidents because they know the precise date on which Xerxes, the Persian, whipped the sea with chains because a storm upset his plans to whip the Greeks. Choose a man who knows or is trying to find out something about the human mind and the human spirit. We want to know why Xerxes whipped the sea, not when.

To be educated doesn't mean to know what happened. It means to know where to look for things—and why.

"Have you anything to say as to why the sentence of the court should not be passed upon you?" asked the judge.

"Nothing, Your Honor," said the prisoner quietly, "except that my wife always referred to the comic strips as 'the funnies.'"

"The court considers that justifiable homicide; turn the prisoner loose and call the next case."

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS

I reckon the reason why kids like pie is that they haven't had much experience with pies. But nearly every kid likes pie. It was different a long time ago, when pies was made by women. Then a guy could eat apple pie after he was ninety, and it would only make him happy.

A kid by the name of Billy was visiting, and the hostess hadn't asked him to come or anything, but she gave him a piece of pie, because she knew that was what he wanted. Billy swallowed it and began looking at the rest of the pie as though he had some plan in mind.

"Does your mother let you eat two pieces of pie at home, Billy?" the lady asked.

"Nope, she don't. But that don't make no difference. She'd be glad for me to eat two pieces at your house, because this ain't her pie."—Copyright, 1927.

Vagrant Verse.

A CREED.

God sends no message by me. I am mute
When Wisdom crouches in her farthest cave;
I love the organ, but must touch the lute . . . .

No controversies thrust me to the ledge
Of dangerous schools and doctrines hard to learn;
Give me the whitethroat whistling in the hedge.

Why should I fret myself to find out nought?
Dispute can blight the soul's eternal corn
And choke its richness with the tares of thought.

I am content to know that God is great,
And Lord of fish and fowl, of air and sea—
Some little points are misty. Let them wait . . . .

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Jan. 20—No American street is so apparently shock-proof as Broadway. It has the languid manner of having seen and heard everything. It is not unusual for an open stage door to reveal half-naked maidens one-two-three-ing to a director's baton with no curious passers-by stopping to peep.

An amusing drawing—I think it was in Life—illustrates the Broadway mind. A man was telling a friend that a Lady Godiva was to ride a horse down the big stem at a certain hour next day. "I'll be there," said the friend. "I haven't seen a horse in a long time."

While the rest of the world was declaiming shrinkage of skirts it is not exaggeration to say Broadway girls were halting in mid-stream brazenly to rouge their bare knees. Fifth avenue makes the fashions and Broadway embroiders the idea.

Several years ago the avenue introduced sheer flesh colored stockings for women and a few weeks later Broadway was showing the stockings with a mesh as big as a dime and it was not many months later they were wearing no stockings at all.

Last summer I was eye-witness to a close-up of Broadway immodesty. In a taxicab next to mine sat a blonde smoking a cigaret. A light shawl was around her shoulders and she wore brief rhinestone trunks and brassiere, but no other clothes.

She was one of those leaping Lena shimmy dancers doubling in a theater and cabaret and being late to the cabaret on a sultry evening, flung a shawl around her shoulders and hopped into a taxi. She wouldn't think of doing such a thing save on Broadway.

Moralists decry such didoes as a shameless show of decadence. They are nothing of the kind. Broadway is merely too busy with its own selfish affairs to be interested in the immodesty of others. It can at least be said of it that it has learned to mind its own business. That, messieurs et madames, is something, even on Broadway.

Manhattan has few alleys. I know of only two. Yet mystery tales of the metropolis continue to tell of pistoled bodies, murderous dens and other symbols of crime in dark alleys. No one incidentally so far as I know has written the romance of American alleys. London mews have been glorified glamorously by eminent authors yet apparently the only person to live in our alleys was a Tin Pan alley creation named Sally.

All of which is remindful of the change that has come to Tin Pan alley—which is not an alley, but a piano thumping district given over to popular song-making. Ten years ago those more lived sumptuously from fruits of their songs. One hit a year meant a limousine life. A song writer who wrote three hits in succession recently went into bankruptcy. Those today making "smart money" can be counted on the fingers of one hand. Phonograph records, the radio and lax copyright protection are contributing causes.

In the waiting-rooms of radio stations are usually a group of dreamers of transcendental dreams. They cherish an almost futile hope of being broadcast to fame. Once in awhile some announced artist is unable to appear and they are given a chance, but opportunity is seldom. Yet they come day after day with their ukes, violins and instruments of brass. Others want to sing, play the piano or deliver monologues. Recognition has, of course, come to a slim few in this fashion, but the great majority are doomed to disappointment.

With few exceptions, too, the radio announcer is paid chiefly in personal glory. Some are able to ballyhoo for enterprises in which they are interested and perhaps enhance receipts, but mostly it is a non-paying profession.—Copyright, 1927.

For What Purpose?

[Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

Until it can be demonstrated that professional sports and athletics in Ohio need a commission to supervise and control them, the presumption will be against the creation of such a body as proposed in a bill introduced in the legislature by Representative Ackerman, of Cleveland.

Such a commission would immediately find itself in conflict with local governing bodies. Boxing in Cleveland and in other Ohio cities where permitted is regulated by local commissions. Professional football and baseball are subject to control exercised by established leagues. Racing control is upon substantially the same basis. What a state commission could do to supplement the activities of these governing bodies, and to place professional athletics upon a better basis does not appear on the surface.

Few athletics or sports events are of state interest. All but a few are local in character and make but a local appeal. A regulatory body, where one is desirable, commensurate with the scope of interest in the event in question, is likely to prove more satisfactory in the end than a state commission necessarily unfamiliar with the details of athletic programs in eighty-eight counties.

The suffering of 20,000 flood victims along the Ohio was intensified by a severe cold wave.

Rev. B. C. Platt delivered the third of a series of lecturers at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium.

Rev. J. P. Currin made an eloquent address at the First Baptist church on "The Art of Poverty Society."

The condition of Blaine avenue was so bad that when the fire department was called to extinguish a small blaze at the home of George Wheeler, it was necessary to use the hook-and-ladder team of the Central department to help the West Side department team pull the hose wagon through the mud, and the four horses moved it, even then, with difficulty.

Much damage was done in the city and county by the wind which accompanied a drop of forty degrees in temperature.

Young People of Today Better Because of Their Freedom; Asserts Henry Ford

Editor's Note: Playing the role of "Mine Host" at historic Wayside Inn, South Sudbury, Mass., Henry Ford, the world's richest man, gave to an International News Service special correspondent the first exclusive authorized interview ever granted to a noted woman writer on the subject of women.

This is the second of a series of three articles. In the first article the Detroit automobile magnate described the passing of the old-fashioned mother, told how drudgery must be taken out of housekeeping and how the Ford laboratory is working on food products to be chemically compounded to eliminate production through domesticated animals, and household preparation of food.

BY THEODATE GEOFFREY
(World Traveled Journalist, Mother of three children, Author of "Powdered Ashes," "An Immigrant in Japan," etc., etc.)

SOUTH SUDBURY, Mass., Jan. 20—"I believe the young people of today are better than they ever have been because they have been given freedom and have learned to stand on their own feet."

HENRY FORD

Henry Ford made this statement with a strong emphasis, although his ordinary conversational tone is so low and quiet is is difficult to follow him.

It was his way of answering the oft-made charge that the automobile in turning young folk loose, away from parental control, had contributed to license and immorality. Henry Ford does not think so.

Tune Taken Out

"Better than ever before," he insisted. "You know, if you cage up a lion for a long while, and then suddenly release him, it is pretty hard to answer for what he will do. He probably will be pretty wild because he is not accustomed to liberty. But if you were to let him run loose, and settle into the feeling of freedom he would get into certain ways of acting and you could have confidence in what to expect of his habits."

"Jazz?" he repeated the word, in answer to a question.

"Jazz is music with the tune taken out."

"I like some tune in the music to which I dance, but when they commercialized dancing and jazz they took all the tune out of it."

I had watched, a little earlier, Mr. and Mrs. Ford in the old ballroom of the old "Red Horse Tavern," immortalized by the poet, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. They were taking a lesson in the intricate maneuvers of the lancers, to the strains of an orchestra of four players, all workmen in the Ford factories, which they had brought with them from Detroit.

I asked if he looked for the revival of old-fashioned dancing to make people take more of their recreation in their own home.

"No," said Mr. Ford, frankly, "You can't expect the young people to do much with music or dancing in the homes. Records for the victrola have helped and the radio; but recreation is really more of a community affair. Get a crowd together and they have more fun."

Mr. and Mrs. Ford had come from Michigan to Sudbury this week especially to be present at the opening of the very little red school house to which Mary and her little lamb went. Fourteen children from the families in the neighborhood are studying there.

"We have 1,600 children in our school at Dearborn," went on Mr. Ford, "and they all get instruction in practical arts and manual training."

"No, I do not advocate psychological tests to pick out what job a child shall be trained for. Let them study and try things and they will soon sort themselves out to the jobs they like and can do well. We get the timber for executives in our personnel by that natural process. A man soon shows what work he likes, is promoted, makes good.

"We give the children plenty of chance to see the way things were done in the old times, and to show them the fundamental processes. They can think out improvements. You have to let people think things out for themselves.

"We have the old mill on this property, now restored and running, so that the children can follow the production of bread, for instance, from the growing of the grain on the farm through the grinding and milling, and so forth.

"As a matter of fact, we have fine village industry plants here at Sudbury already. One for instance, has to do with the weaving of cloth. The children, as they graduate from the school, will have the opportunity of going into whatever industry interests them, and they can choose because they will have had practical experience of the various sorts, to judge by."

(In tomorrow's article Mr. Ford discusses wages for wives when women have been taken out of the kitchen.)

WAR VETERANS URGED TO REINSTATE INSURANCE

Postoffice Department Encourages Men To Take Out Government Policies

World War veterans are urged to reinstate their lapsed war risk insurance and to convert it into United States government life insurance, in a bulletin received at the local postoffice today from Postmaster General Harry S. New.

President Coolidge designates the period Jan. 31 to Feb. 7, 1927 as the time during which a special effort should be made to get in touch with all veterans.

Detailed information with reference to such insurance can be obtained from the central office of the United States Veterans' Bureau, Washington, D. C., or from regional offices located throughout the country.

PROMOTION PROGRAM IN COUNTY SCHOOLS DRAWN

Elimination of Conditional Advancement Sought in Schedule Drafted

A definite program governing promotions in the schools of Marion County, eliminating conditional promotions and arranging for summer work and extra examinations has been drawn up by Supt. C. B. Rayburn and county supervisors. This program has been outlined in a two-page pamphlet and distributed to all students. The program lays down strict regulations governing the promotion of students in the grade schools, with the same general application to the high schools of the county.

"There seems to be rather a prevalent idea among pupils that they will pass regardless," the pamphlet states. "Others have. They will. They should disabuse their minds of this at once, as the following program will be strictly followed beginning with the school year 1926-1927."

Among the points which the program sets up for promotions are a minimum grade of 60 with an average grade of 70 in all branches; no conditional promotions if a pupil fails in one and not more than two subjects; consent of principal of school to make up work in failure, and approval of tutor under which the student is to study during the summer; examination in August before opening of school on subjects studied during the summer months.

Making up work in which the pupil has failed during the regular school year will be subject to examination before pupil may advance to the higher class, under the new regulations. These examinations will be given by the county superintendent in the case of eighth grade pupils, and in the separate schools by the school principal for pupils under the eighth grade.

Follows Same Plan

The same general plan will be followed in the high schools of the county as in the grade schools. Pupils who fail in one and not more than two subjects, and wish to make it up during the summer will be required to study under an approved tutor during the summer and take an examination before being promoted to the higher grade.

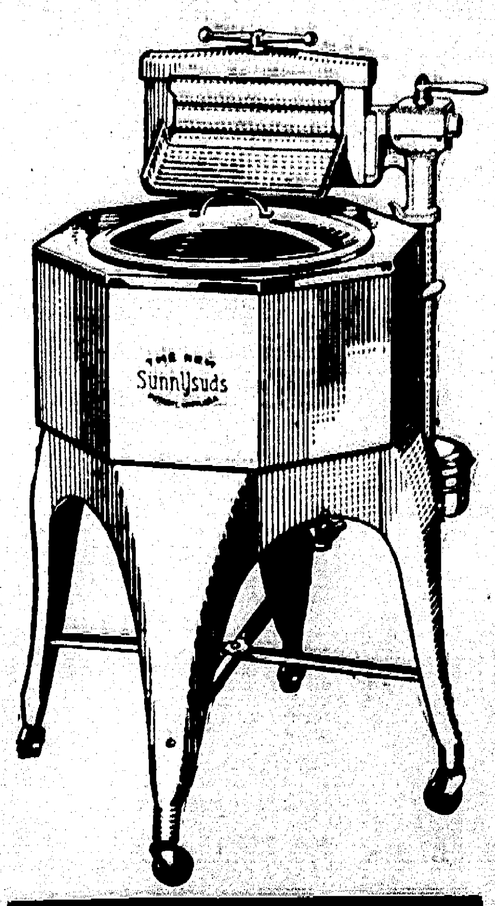
Let Your Own Eyes Tell You

You needn't be satisfied with anybody's words or claims. Just see the New Sunnysuds for yourself.

Your own eyes will tell you more forcibly than anything else can, the remarkable advantages of this new machine.

You'll see—and you'll KNOW—that nothing approaching it has ever before been produced in an electric washer.

Its striking superiority is so plain and clear, that there'll be no room for doubt or indecision. We'll be satisfied with what you SAY, after you SEE.



See It for Yourself

You will NOT see a single exposed moving part; no belts, chains or springs; no unsightly mechanism; no messy grease drippings; no old-fashioned cast iron frame or housings; and not a single oil hole.

You WILL see a trim, brightly-enameled, handsome appliance—the finest example of modern manufacturing in the electric washer industry.

Frame of pressed steel; heavy, octagon-shaped copper tub, nickel-plated on the inside; every moving part enclosed in oil-tight housings—(It OILS ITSELF); the Agitator built of German Silver, the most expensive material used for this purpose in any washer, at any price.

All this, and much more. And when you see it wash a tubful of clothing to snowy whiteness in five minutes, you'll be doubly impressed.

Just SEE it. That's all we ask. Either here, or in your own home. Telephone, or call—any time.

The more you pity a man, the less you think of him.

Living Princess, Woodcutter Loving

SINCE a certain poet philosopher has given the universe to understand there's little in a name, let's call the woman in the case Mistress Molly. And the man—(for of course there is a man) shall be known as John Brown.

Now, John's earthly possessions are so trifling as to be scarcely worthy of mention. But Mistress Molly's father has an overabundance. In this odious comparison lies the reason for our story.

Theirs is the most pretentious house in the suburb where they live; theirs the biggest car. Molly's wardrobe is large and varied. John's cigars are of a brand seldom smoked by the less fortunate young men by whose side he works. And Molly's and John's parties are seven day wonders to their guests.

SURELY the star of good luck hangs high over the heads of this young couple. No hardships to endure. No worries to weather. Everything that is popularly supposed to assure comfort and contentment, theirs! Thus concludes the casual and very likely envious observer. But upon closer acquaintance with Molly and John one suspects that with them things are not what they seem. By their own words are they convicted.

Molly:—"I am so unhappy. John doesn't love me any more. He's grouchy—ready to pick a quarrel at the least little thing. The burden of his complaint is my extravagance. As if he needed to worry when Dad is willing to pay all my bills! Yet that is what John resents. He says it hurts him to feel I cannot be satisfied with what he can provide for me. The very idea!"

John: "A fellow has no buiness to marry unless he can support his wife in the way to which she has been accustomed. There's more truth than humor in that old saw! Molly loves the rare things of life. My income will buy for her only the ordinary necessities. It seems unfair to deprive her of luxuries, so I've tried not to mind when her father gratifies her expensive desires. But it's on my nerves—this living in a house my money isn't paying for, driving a car for which I can just afford the gasoline. I'm not a man and master in my house; I'm a puppet dangling at the end of a string. And I'm through offering such a sorry spectacle for the world's scornful amusement. Either Molly loves me enough to go without the things I can't give her or she loves things so much she is willing to do without me."

MOLLY and John's dilemma reminds us of a like problem presented in a book by Basil King. The heroine elopes with a bank clerk. When she falls heiress to her father's millions the young husband declares:

"Think of a bank teller with the income of $3,000,000 pouring in on him. He couldn't keep his job for shame's sake . . . Working your way up is something like climbing a mountain on your own feet instead of going up by means of a funicular. To me the climbing is the better sport."

And the wife gives up her wealth to share her husband's climb.

FORM ORGANIZATION

Forest Lawn Church Members Plan To Aid Revival

Following the revival service at Forest Lawn Presbyterian Church last night a large number of members of the church formed a Christian workers' organization for the purpose of aiding in carrying on the revival now in progress at the church.

Rev. Robert Porter, pastor of the Galion Presbyterian Church, in a powerful sermon on the subject of "Loyalty" said, "The Need of the Kingdom is for Christians who are loyal to the work of Christ." Paul Sprang a member of the Epworth M. E. Church choir, sang several solos, accompanied by Mrs. Walter Sloan church organist. According to Rev. A. W. Swan, pastor of the church, there have been a large number of conversions at each service, interest having reached a high plane.

Rev. Porter will preach at the service tonight and members of the Sunday School Orchestra will entertain with several selections. Services are held at 7:30 o'clock each night with the exception of Saturday.

The program opened with a reading by Miss Marjorit Helen Bindley and a violin duet by Carlen Pulsford and Frederick Wilkins, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. O. C. Wilkins. CLINGING BLACK DRESS OF ROMANCE ILLUSTRATED

The clinging black dress of romantic fiction is illustrated here. The long trailing lines are absent, however. This is strictly a modern version with short and very full skirt.

The "clinging" quality applies only to the bodice which fits the form closely. The skirt has an uneven hem.

The material is black chiffon over crepe satin and black lace. A cut steel trimming at the neckline takes the place of a necklace and is made into a bow knot on the shoulder, the bow apparently holding a corsage of flowers. The same motif is repeated at the waist.

TIRED OUT AFTER HOUSEWORK?

When Your Steps Drag and Your Hands Feel Heavy

SOMETIMES life hardly seems worth living after a busy, tiring day. Aches and dull pains, perhaps a headache, or perhaps just a general feeling of being too weary to take any interest in anything.

But you shouldn't feel that way. Ordinary housework shouldn't wear you out. You need Plant Juice, Nature's own tonic of herbs, roots, barks, leaves and blossoms. Plant Juice works wonders, and is pleasant to take. Read what Mrs. Morris of 108 E. 13th Street, Wilmington, Del., says:

"Three years ago I suffered from indigestion and nervousness, and had a general breakdown. At night I just laid awake waiting for daylight to come. I was so weak I could not do my housework, and was a wreck. I was discouraged as I spent hundreds of dollars not even getting relief. I began on Plant Juice in a half-hearted way, but the results were remarkable. My stomach feels like a new one, and I can eat three solid meals a day and enjoy every crumb. My nerves are calm and steady; I sleep the whole night through and wake feeling right smart and my housework is a pleasure. I have not had a day of sickness since I first took Plant Juice and that was three years ago. Before taking Plant Juice I weighed 92 pounds, today I weigh 128."

When you notice a big improvement after the first bottle, don't stop taking it. Give Plant Juice a chance to do you some real good. It acts on liver and bowels. Regulates and tones you up in a natural way—no griping.

Your druggist can supply you. Ask for the original Dillingham's Plant Juice. It has helped tired people for over 30 years.

The Little White Hag

©BY LITTLE, BROWN AND CO. RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSN

...rator of the tale, is ... employed by a bank ... He starts for Geneva to ... the headquarters of the League of Nations, stopping at Dijou between trains. He shares his room with another American who says he is a schoolmaster studying ... During the night the "schoolmaster" disappears.

Quexter arrives at Geneva finding that the League is discussing the drug traffic. At the ... casino he sees a stout, ... dressed Italian whom he had noticed at Dijon and overhears part of a conversation between him and another man, with mention of a "Stella" and a mysterious "Center" under whose orders they all seem to be. Quexter picks up a bunch of flowers thrown by a passing girl and finds a handkerchief among the stems. He uses it to bind up a cut finger and later sends it to the laundry.

Next day the stout Italian—Baldassare Marco—calls on him and demands the handkerchief. Quexter will give him no satisfaction and that afternoon he is kidnapped, made prisoner in a house outside the city and questioned by a Japanese. Left to himself he escapes from the house only to fall into a well. He finds an outlet, swims through it and comes to a door which leads into a dungeon in which he finds the man who shared his room in Dijon being kept prisoner. Marco and a Jap are with him and are evidently planning to kill him shortly. By a ruse the two Americans escape and get to Geneva where they appeal to the police for protection. Quexter sleeps that night with the American who turns out to be a detective interested in unraveling the secrets of the illicit drug traffic for the American government.

The morning after the escape Quexter wakes up to find Claypole, the detective, disguised as an old man in the room advising him to get up and eat breakfast.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

"You look surprised," he remarked. "I've been up these two hours, gallivanting around in these togs and playing the part of dear old grandad from the backwoods come to see the great town and all the folks on the sidewalk."

"What have you been doing?" I inquired.

"I have been putting a little ginger into those police," he replied. "They are getting their blamed warrant signed by the old fellow with the grippe. In about ten minutes off we hike in a police automobile to old Count Emilco's two-storied tenement."

"Then I must be pretty smart," I said, devouring the last remnants of the omelette.

"No immediate hurry for you," replied Claypole. "You won't be making this trip with us."

I put down my fork and looked at him rebelliously.

"Claypole," I said, "I told you last night that I intended to see this business through. I'm right in with you, and I don't mean to be put out."

Claypole laid a hand on my arm.

"I know," he said. "But I've got another job for you. Do you know why I look like a dime character in a wild and wooly western film?"

"I do not."

"Well, friend I have just rambled round to the high-class laundry establishment where your linen is now hanging out on the little old clothes line."

I looked over his shoulder and saw two individuals loitering on the sidewalk.

"I see. You've been after the handkerchief," I said.

"You bet," replied Claypole, "like a customs officer after a bootlegger, but they didn't take to the idea of entrusting your washing to any one short of Robert W. Quexter himself so I guess you will have to step along and fetch it."

"Very well," I said, lathering my chin, "I will go the moment I am dressed. Where is this laundry to be found?"

"It's a kind of convent," said Claypole, "in a little one-horse burg in France where they take in washing."

This was apparently a usual practice in Geneva which, as a glance at the map will show, is surrounded on all sides save one by French Savoy. The particular convent which did the washing for some of the principal hotels in Geneva was situated at Ferney-Voltaire.

I had just finished shaving when a sudden thought struck me.

"Claypole," I said, "what about the little Japanese who was sent to retrieve the handkerchief yesterday? He will surely have contrived to get it by now."

"I think not," Claypole replied. "I'm pretty sure that it has not yet left the care of the holy nuns. Have you read the newspapers this morning?"

"No," I said.

Claypole handed me a copy of La Suisse open at the local news, where I saw a small paragraph marked with a line of red pencil. It was as follows:

Automobile versus motor cyclist.

At 6:55 p. m. yesterday evening an automobile driven by M. Cal resident, Avenue de Chantepoulet 515 bis, came into collision with a motor cyclist at the junction of the Avenue de Secheron and the route de Lausanne. The car was proceeding from Geneva in the direction of Versoix, and the motor cyclist in the opposite direction. The motor cyclist was thrown from his machine a distance of 7 meters, sustaining severe injuries to his head. The victim received first aid at police post No. 17 in the rue Butini, and was afterwards transported to the cantonal hospital. His condition is grave, and he has not yet recovered consciousness. The name of the unfortunate man is not known, but he is of Japanese nationality. The gendarme Jacot conducted the preliminary investigations into the cause of the accident.

I laid the paper down and looked at Claypole.

"Strikes me," he said, "that the unfortunate messenger of the lord high muck a muck who calls himself the Center is now knocking at the heavenly gates."

"They may have sent another man," I pointed out.

"Sure", he replied, "But somehow I think they have been a darned sight too busy chasing around after us. I got a kind of hunch you will find the handkerchief in the laundry."

I was by this time nearly ready.

"Look here, Claypole," I said, as I knotted my tie, what is the use of the handkerchief, anyway? I can't conceive why they should want it so hard?"

Claypole did not answer for a moment, and as my back was turned to him I could not see the expression of his face. Presently he said:

"I will be frank with you. The fact is, I simply don't know. But clearly it is so vital that the gang will stick at nothing in order to get it."

I had a glimpse of his face in the mirror in front of me as he spoke. His quiet smile had disappeared; his eyes were hard and keen; and the racy slang of his ordinary speech was in abeyance.

"You remember," he went on, "I told you about poor Harold Lynch. He was murdered. We were never able to find out who did it, but I am pretty well sure it was the same gang. He was after a cigar case, but he never got it. This time it is a handkerchief."

"What will it be next time?" I exclaimed.

"There is not going to be a next time," said Claypole quietly, "not if Cyrus P. Claypole and Robert W. Quexter can prevent it."

"I need not warn you of the danger," he continued. "That reminds me. I've got the police, after much persuasion, to give us some of that protection we asked for yesterday."

He rose and approached the window.

"There they are," he said. "They don't look particularly bright, but they were the best I could find. They have orders not to lose sight of you for an instant. They will follow you to the laundry, but you must behave as though you did not know of their existence."

I looked over his shoulder and saw in the street below two undistinguished individuals quietly dressed, who were loitering on the sidewalk.

"There's a taxi waiting for you at the corner," continued Claypole. "Come straight back here when you have got the handkerchief and wait for me. Got your passport?" he added.

I nodded. He looked at me a moment, anxious as I thought, and unusually excited. Then with a return to his normal manner:

"Let's away," he chanted, "and part the glories of this happy day. Floorish and exeunt omnes."

We shook hands and I left the room.

National Thrift Week Began January 17

Benjamin Franklin, the most human counselor of thrift a country ever knew, spent his life preaching the importance of monetary independence.

The ability to save a part of one's income seems almost the one requisite of success. It is never too late to begin the practice of the homely virtue.

Having a bank account and paying cash for personal and household needs, your money begins to work for you, earning more money in interest and in lower prices.

January 17, the first day of National Thrift Week, is Franklin's birthday. Honoring America's foremost apostle of thrift by starting your thrift campaign on that day, will be starting toward financial independence.

Every day has a special significance in the practice of thrift for those who do their buying at our Stores.

Why Castoria?

Years ago Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups were the remedies in common use for Infants and Children; Castor Oil so nauseating as to be almost impossible and the others all containing Opium in one form or another, but so disguised as to make them pleasant to the taste, yet really to stupefy the child and give the appearance of relief from pain.

It required years of research to find a purely vegetable combination that would take the place of these disagreeable, unpleasant and vicious remedies that from habit had become almost universal. This was the inception of, and the reason for, the introduction of Fletcher's Castoria, and for over 30 years it has proven its worth, received the praise of Physicians everywhere and become a household word among mothers.

A remedy ESPECIALLY prepared for Infants and Children and no mother would think of giving to her baby a remedy that she would use for herself, without consulting a physician.

To avoid imitations always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

Quicksands of Love

BY ADELE GARRISON

THOUGH I had no inkling whatever of the meaning of the telephone message which Lillian was receiving, I found myself listening to her end of the conversation with thrilled interest, as though it were something vital to myself. That it was of exceeding importance to her and to some problem which she was working out, I was sure, as I remembered her hasty entrance to the apartment, and her patent relief when she found that she had not been too late for the message which she evidently had arranged to have sent to her at our home.

"What news?" she had asked, when she recognized the voice accosting her, and then she had listened for several seconds, with her face set in the poker mask which it almost always wears.

"All right," she said at last. "Now let me check up on this. Give me the number and street of the place you went. Correct. Give me the name of the proprietor. All right. Now the name of the person you went to see. Yes, that was a catch question, I'll admit. Be glad you didn't fumble it. What distinguished her? Right. Who was with her? Yes. Name? You're sure she's there now? What is she doing? Correct. Stay there until she leaves. Then telephone me again immediately."

She hung up the telephone, and turned to me.

"Quick!" she said. "Come upstairs with me to Mary's room."

I followed her through my bedroom and to the private staircase. On the landing she halted and put her lip to my ear.

"Don't be upset, no matter what we find," she said.

But that was an admonition which I could not heed. My heart would have shame as I softly padded up the stair like any self-respecting trip-hammer to ease. I do not count myself especially brilliant of mind, but I would have been stupid, indeed, if from the telephone conversation and Lillian's present actions, I had not deduced a conjecture concerning my husband's young niece, which was altogether too fantastic for ordinary credence, but one in which Lillian evidently believed.

We stepped inside the room, but there came no sound of heavy breathing to our ears, such as we had heard the night before from Mary. At first I was startled, then I reflected that under my medications the child's cold had been distinctly alleviated, and that, therefore, she was in all probability was breathing softly. We could see the outline of her curled-up figure. Lillian suddenly touched my arm and beckoned me back to the stairway.

"I'll stay out here for fear she'll waken," he said, "but do you go over, put your hand on her head, and turn her face to you. If she wakens, tell her you were worried over her cold, and afraid she had a temperature."

The Best Cough Syrup Is Home-made

Here's no money you to save $2, and you have home cough medicine you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this famous home-made cough syrup. But have you ever used it? Thousands of families feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will soon earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. It tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, which has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

PINEX for Coughs

"My Catarrh is all gone"

What freedom in those words! Only those can realize who know the distress of clogged nose, catarrhal deafness, offensive breath, raising of mucus, and lowered vitality due to catarrh. Yet thousands still endure catarrh needlessly, because they are treating symptoms instead of the cause.

Catarrh is an inflamed condition of the mucous membrane—the delicate lining of the air passages of nose, throat and head. When this is corrected, catarrh disappears.

Salves and ointments give only temporary relief. But Hall's Catarrh Medicine because it goes directly to the cause has been successful for over 40 years. Ask your druggist. Price 85c. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

Agents Meeting Today in Office of Supervisor F. A. Sparks; Conferences Are Held To Promote Safer Transportation of Freight

A monthly meeting of the freight claim prevention committee of the Toledo Division of the Hocking Valley Railroad was held today in the office of Supervisor F. A. Sparks of this district.

Topics pertaining to the safe handling of freight were up for discussion and a general talk on the prevention of claims was held among agents and supervisors who were in attendance at the meeting.

The monthly meetings are held in order to promote the safer handling of freight and consequently cut down the claims made by shippers. Agents from stations along the Toledo Division were here for the meeting and general get-together gathering.

The meeting was called early today and remained in session until late this afternoon.

Maintains Schedule

All passenger trains operating through Marion yesterday were on schedule time in spite of the snow and ice. Tracks were in good condition, although the rapid thaw and rain caused high water in many places.

Radio Program

Final arrangements are being made for the second monthly program to be broadcast from radio station WOWO, Ft. Wayne, beginning at 8 o'clock, Monday night, Jan. 31, by employes of the Ft. Wayne Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The Ft. Wayne band will feature the program, providing an hour's entertainment of both classical and descriptive musical numbers.

The regular Pennsylvania Hour on the radio from WEAF, New York, and chain stations, comes on the air at 8 o'clock every Sunday night.

Erie Second

The Erie railroad ranks second in percentage of on time records in September, a summary by the Public Service Commission of the state of New York showed today.

Rail Improvements

In the last seven years the railroads of the United States have expended more than five billion dollars for capital improvements and betterments, says an editorial in the current issue of the Erie Railroad Magazine.

In no year in their history have the railroads of the United States made a better showing for efficiency of operation than in the year 1926.

The capital expenditures in 1926 are estimated at $875,000,000. These expenditures have been made to provide better transportation service and to increase the economy and safety of operation.

Secret Service Man Has Task Tracing First Lady

Mrs. Coolidge One of Most Notable Pedestrians in Washington

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, emerged from the senate restaurant.

She had been listennig to a debate on the Mexican and Nicaraguan situations in which she is much interested, and dropped into the restaurant for a bite before returning to the White House. She lunches frequently in the senate restaurant.

MRS. CALVIN COOLIDGE

As Mrs. Coolidge proceeded toward the east exit from the capitol her secret service bodyguard, Jim Healey, fell in, a discreet few steps behind her.

The doorkeeper touched his cap. "Shall I call your auto, ma'am?" he asked.

"Oh," said the "first lady" with her dazzling smile, "I'm on foot."

IT'S a good four miles from the White House to the capitol and back, but Mrs. Coolidge walks it almost every day, when congress is in session.

Nor is that all the walking she does. Mrs. Coolidge is one of the most notable pedestrians in Washington. She walks far and she walks fast. Jim Healey has to step to keep up. He trails the "first lady" an average of eight or ten miles a day in fair weather, and often she dons a raincoat and ventures out when it isn't so fair.

She wears the simplest kind of dress, with skirt a little more than knee length, and common-sense heels on her rambles.

IT'S thus that Mrs. Coolidge keeps her girlish figure at 48.

The President is taking on a bit too much flesh. He, also, is a walker, when he has the time, but business interferes. He misses a great many constitutionals. His doctor made him cut out his breakfast sausage recently.

Mrs. Coolidge eats what she likes. She's diet-proof, with the exercise she gets.

THE White House mistress has made pedestrianism quite a fad in Washington society.

It isn't as classy as it was for a woman in the smart set to be seen always rolling by in a high-priced limousine. The swellest thing is to get into a walking suit and pair of stout shoes and go for a hike, head up and elbows crooked, a la Mrs. Coolidge, down the Avenue of the Presidents, or out to the Tidal Basin, or over to the capitol.

It's all right for the flappers, but it makes some of the dowagers pant.

A few have adopted the custom of having a lackey tag along behind, to look like an escort, like Jim Healey, in the "first lady's" wake.

WHEN the President stirs out he has at least three attendants with him—one big husky almost abreast of him, with a couple more a dozen paces in the rear and maybe one or two keeping a watchful eye on the part from over the way.

His wife finds Jim Healey guardian enough.

She's as democratic as can be, and speaks to everybody who speaks to her, which hundreds of people do who know her only by sight and whom she doesn't know at all.

There are a few homes where she calls, too, on her excursions. Theoretically the members of the presidential family call on nobody, but these visits are unofficial. Whenever you see Jim Healey on somebody's doorsteps, waiting, you know Mrs. Coolidge is inside.

Jim has a responsible job and a hard one, on shoe leather, but it has its attractions for a man who likes the open air.

Considerate Though Conservative

Conservation is rightly considered the first requisite of a bank. But conservatism too often is excessive, bringing with it lack of human sympathy and understanding.

The Marion National was founded on the bed-rock principles of conservative banking. Continued adherence to that principle has given the Marion National an enviable record in the financial history of Marion—yet we keep close to the human element in banking and in dealing with you we take time to learn your personal problems, then apply our experience and judgment toward their solution.

UBSTITUTE FOR OOD ALCOHOL OT YET FOUND

hemists Unsuccessful Thus 'ar in Attempt To Remove Poison from Product

Washington, Jan. 20—Despite the n of Secretary of the Treasury Mel- to remove poison from industrial hol, treasury chemists so far have ed to discover an effective "nasty harmless" substitute for wood hol, it was learned today.

nstructed by Mellon to investigate poisonous denaturants, chemists continuing the quest of a new mula, although a report made to treasury indicated no material gress.

n view of the chemists' report and sulting of the storm of criticism ated by alcohol deaths during the ays, it was learned that the treas- would take no immediate action to ange the industrial alcohol formulas. ater, it was stated, a reduction of wood alcohol content in denaturing ssess probably would be authorized, forestall new charges that the gov- ment is poisoning liquors to aid ohibition enforcement.

Study Deaths

A thorough study of alcoholic deaths the United States last year, has vinced treasury officials that from to four per cent wood alcohol used denaturing does not create a deadly son.

The psychological effect of wood hol, however, tends to keep much the completely denatured alcohol of bootleg markets, according to ials.

Bootleggers, according to treasury re- s, are diverting a small per cent completely denatured alcohol, such anti-freeze mixtures, which contain od alcohol. They are tapping the ply of specially denatured alcohol, timately used in the production of oring extracts, toilet waters and per- es.

Formulas Worthless

Many "harmless" denaturants so discovered are said by treasury gures to be virtually worthless in reventing diversions of industrial hol. A strictly non-poisonous de- aturant means more alcohol for the ugger, officials said, although it s declared that before the arrival of ther holiday "drinking period," de- aturing formulas probably would con- n less wood alcohol than now.

N CANADA EXPORTED $20,000,000 OF LIQUOR

od, It All Came to United States, Is Claim of Association

Washington, Jan. 20—Canada ex- ted $20,000,000 worth of alcoholic uor to the United States in 1926, ording to a statement issued today the Association Against the Prohi- on Amendment.

It is illegal to import liquor into United States but it is not illegal port it from Canada to this coun- thanks to the 'joker' which was ped into the agreement signed by two nations," the association said. This joker is a clause that states adian customs officers must not re- e clearances to rum-runners, pro- d they appear capable of making journey to the American port desig- ed in their papers.

n addition to the $20,000,000 worth liquor smuggled into this country, statement said that shipments of beer and gin, must be added. It stated that $5,000,000 worth of was sent into the United States n Canada.

Shipments to Mexico and Cuba e insignificant, the bulk of Canada's ort liquor trade being with the ted States," the association said.

MORE BIRTHS IN UNION COUNTY THAN DEATHS

Monthly Health Report Is Filed by Commissioner H. G. Southard

Marysville, Jan. 20—The monthly health report of Union County has been filed by County Health Commissioner H. G. Southard. The report shows a decline in the number of communicable diseases and the general health of the county as fair. The following was taken from the report on communicable diseases:

Tuberculosis, three; measles, two; scarlet fever, two; smallpox, five; whooping cough, two; typhoid fever, one.

Many special visits were made by the department which took up most of the time of the commissioner and assistants. One child, a cripple, was committed in charge of the State Welfare Department at Columbus and another patient was removed to a hospital. Six throat cultures and two water samples were taken.

Births again outnumbered deaths in the county 34 to 21. Children were born to the following parents:

Mr. and Mrs. Lotis Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo King, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Sours, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Derr, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Liebold, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Liggett, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Roll, Mr. and Mrs. William Speakman, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gansheimer, Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Levan, Mr. and Mrs. Max Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Nicel, Mr. and Mrs. Asa Peppers, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Scheiderer, Mr. and Mrs. Eli Miller, Mr. and Mrs. William H. The subject of proper ventilation in the school room was given considerable attention by the department. It is stated that air coming into room from window openings is much more favorable than air circulated by mechanical means. Information in regard to colds, and other diseases of the nose and throat, giving as the cause exposure to sudden changes in temperature of the air breathed.

Columbus Outfit Loses to Union County Team by Margin of Two Points

Marysville, Jan. 20 New Dover High School basketeers again displayed their superior ability to Marysville and Union County fans last night when they defeated Mann's Business College team of Columbus by a score of 32 to 30. Marysville High School rooters were there in full color rooting for the Columbus team but to no avail. Two former Marysville starts, Raines and Bergandine, of high school fame, were in the line-up for the college team and played their usual fine game.

The Doverites rolled up a 15 to 0 tally over their opponents in the first quarter but were held in the second while the latter made 11 points, which left the score 15 to 11 in favor of New Dover. The Dover team came back strong in the third and led their opponents 26 to 13 at the end, finishing the game leading 30 to 32. Hutchisson and Taylor played best for New Dover and King garnered most of the points for Columbus.

COOPERATIVE SHIPPING RECEIPTS ARE $75,515.61

Wyandot County Organization Does Record Business During Month

Upper Sandusky, Jan. 20—Cooperative livestock shipments in Wyandot county last month amounted to $75,515.61 as shown by figures compiled by Allen T. Moser, livestock shipping manager of this county.

This is a large increase over preceding months and other years due to the increased number of shipments going through cooperative channels and by the rushed shipment of hogs in large numbers during the cholera epidemic.

The total net market value of cooperative livestock shipments in Ohio for 1926 amounted to $14,527,875.17 or more than a million dollars gain over last year, according to reports received by the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

A notable increase in the efficiency of the service of livestock marketing through the department of the Ohio Farm Bureau Association is shown by the decreased cost of handling stock. In 1925 the average expense of marketing, not including shrink, was 90 1-2 cents whereas last year it dropped to 56 1-2 cents.

Dandruff Soon Destroys the Hair

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—adv.

Galion Society Once More Glories in Winter Sport

GALION, Jan. 20 — Galion's most popular resort, Lake Galion, has been proving a favorite place for winter sports and each night is thronged with members of the club and friends intent upon enjoying the privileges of the winter season as fully as the milder amusements of warmer weather.

The lake which is several miles southwest of the city is set among beautiful hills which although in summer are of scenic advantage only are especially suited to the recreations which flourish at this season of the year.

Coasters are to be seen at the lake at almost any time and a number of delightful social affairs o frecent date are contributing to making the lake an ideal winter playground. Bobsled parties also have been featured in the program of the past weeks and cottage dances and winter picnics have proved enjoyable events. Ruddy fires glowing along the banks of the lake lend cheer to the scene and comfort to the merrymakers.

The boy scouts enjoyed a sleigh ride and campfire at the resort early in the week. Several cottages were open for their pleasure and they succeeded in holding one of the most enthusiastic meetings of the years.

From all indications the indoor winter with which Galion society has been forced to be content during the last few years, is a thing of the past and with renewed vigor the enthusiasts of winter sport are resurrecting forgotten sleds and pressing skates of by-gone days into active use.

Concrete Streets, like Concrete Roads, are a good investment—not an expense

Defiance County Farmers Enter New Era of Prosperity Via Concrete Roads

Twelve years ago the farmers of Defiance County, Ohio, were suffering big losses as a direct result of bad roads.

After heavy rains, many of these roads became seas of mud, and it was impossible for days at a time to get to market at all.

But in 1914 Defiance County began to build concrete roads, and today has mile after mile of this firm, rigid, unyielding type.

Farmers in every section of the county can now deliver their poultry, eggs, milk and other perishable produce in prime condition—no matter what the state of the weather.

Nor is the farmer the only one who has benefited by the coming of concrete roads. Prosperity has steadily increased all along the line.

For example, the City of Defiance has developed into an important produce center, where several nationally known produce houses have opened receiving stations doing an annual business which runs into the millions.

The simple truth is that concrete roads soon pay for themselves, and they continue to return dividends in the form of greater all-round prosperity year after year—with practically no expense for maintenance.

LAST DAY TO GET DOG LICENSES

Marysville, Jan. 20— Today was the last day that Union County dog owners or harborers had in getting tags for their "canines" without paying the extra penalty of one dollar, according to County Auditor L. P. Sherman. Statistics at the auditor's office show that about $5,000 worth of sheep were killed in Union County last year, but only about 50 cents on a dollar went to owners because dog owners failed to pay the dog tax last year. An extra effort will be made this year to compel every dog owner to pay the tax, officials said.

Sciatic-Neuritis

The sciatic erve, situated at the back of the hip joint is frequently the subject of Neuritis, giving rise to the painful disease Sciatica. The symptoms are intense pains which shoot down the thigh to the foot, often aggravated by walking, and with painful points along the course of the nerve, very tender to the touch.

The trouble is a very obstinate one and does not readily respond to ordinary treatment. It takes more than the usual pain sedative even to alleviate the pain. The best way to get relief from the persistent nerve racking pains of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take them as directed and in about 24 hours you should be able to notice that they have considerably reduced, if not almost banished, all pain and soreness. Continue faithfully and in a reasonable time you should be able to work and rest in comfort once again. Bradley Drug Store keeps Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2 in stock all the time and sells lots of it.—Adv.

WOODS CASE ON SENATE DOCKET FOR HEARING

Issue Over Interstate Commerce Commission Appointee May Open Today

Washington, Jan. 20—Unless forced to postpone it because of the Smith case, the senate today will pass upon the nomination of Cyrus E. Woods of Pennsylvania, as a member of the interstate commerce commission.

A confidential poll by International News Service showed 50 senators opposed to confirmation of Woods and but 36 ready to approve his appointment. As the vote probably will be taken behind closed doors, however, there were indications that these figures might be overthrown. Both Senator Reed, Democrat, of Pennsylvania, leading the fight for confirmation and Senator Goff, Republican, of West Virginia, leading the opposition, predicted victory.

20 Republicans Against

The poll however showed 20 Republicans lined up against Woods, including Senators Borah, Couzens, Edge, Ernst, Frazier, Goff, Howell, Johnson, LaFollette, McMaster, McNary, Norbeck, Norris, Nye, Oddie, Pine, Sackett, Schall and Stewart. But three Democrats were reported favorable to Woods Senators, Hawes, Mayfield and Underwood. If the same lines are maintained on a secret ballot, it was apparent that Woods would be rejected.

The fight over Woods found the senate in a series of complicated factions. The groups opposing him included friends of the "open shop" mines in Tennessee, Kentucky and West Virginia, along with the whole insurgent bloc. The factions friendly to Woods include the conservative bloc and senators from states having union mines.

Oppositions Stand

The opponents of Woods fought his appointment on the ground that his arensence as a Pennsylvanian on the commission would be a constant threat to the present preferential freight rates given coal cargoes from the "open shop" mines to great lake ports. The insurgents however opposed him because he has a fortune invested in railroad stocks and bonds.

Friends of Woods defended the appointment on the ground that as a known conservative he will protect all business interests and that Pennsylvania has not been represented on the commission in nearly 40 years. The administration ranks also gravitated toward him because of the natural desire to support a presidential appointee.

Under a previous agreement, the nomination was scheduled to be considered at 3 o'clock today. Due to the Smith case, however, its consideration may be postponed until tomorrow.

CHAPLIN'S WIFE STILL AHEAD IN LEGAL BATTLE

Film Comedians Private Financial Affairs Spread Before Public

Los Angeles, Jan. 20—Eighteen-year-old Lita Grey Chaplin still was ahead today in the divorce battle with Charles Chaplin in spite of the fact that Chaplin's attorneys have succeeded in obtaining a court order lifting the receivership from the famous comedian's Hollywood studio.

Mrs. Chaplin, through her attorneys, succeeded in making the receivership lifting order a move without any significance whatsoever because of the provision attached to the order by Superior Court Judge Walter Guerin calling for the deposit of a $1,000,000 bond before the order becomes effective.

Possible removal of the receivership from the studio, however, would not remove the restraining order placed on the comedian's personal properties and assets.

Show Chaplin Accounts

Mrs. Chaplin's attorneys by their determined efforts to block any move that might release the Chaplin millions succeeded in spreading on the court records secrets of Chaplin's finances for all the world to see.

Judge Guerin fixed the bond of Chaplin's Hollywood studio at $1,000,000 after Receivers W. I. Gilbert and Herman Spitzel had disclosed the contents of the two safes they had opened in the studio offices. The bond was imposed to protect the interests of Mrs. Chaplin and her two babies during the pendency of her divorce action.

The following bank accounts under the name of the Chaplin Studio, Inc., together with the amounts on deposit, were found in the safe:

Guaranty Trust Co., New York City, $495,433;

Federal Trust and Savings Bank, Hollywood Branch, $12,598;

Commercial National Bank, Hollywood Branch, $9,500.

Total $1,458,624

A bank balance for the Regent Film Co., Inc., was listed in bank books found in the safes in excess of $290,000. Two of the accounts were in England, three of them in New York City and three in Los Angeles and Hollywood.

The total itemized valuation of the accounts was listed at $1,458,624.

Another development in the case was the declaration by William K. Young, attorney for Mrs. Chaplin that he and Mrs. Chaplin's other attorneys, will ask for Chaplin's arrest if the money awarded by the court to Mrs. Chaplin is not paid when the comedian comes under the jurisdiction of the court 60 days from the beginning of service by publication.

Four Games in Marion County High Leagues Friday

HARDING HIGH TO PLAY BUCYRUS FRIDAY

CRAWFORD FIVE IS LOCAL JINX, RECORDS SHOW

Annual Battle To Be Staged on Bucyrus Court

When Harding High faces the basketeers of Bucyrus High School on the Bucyrus floor Friday night, they will oppose a basketball outfit that has not tasted defeat at the hands of a Harding team for the last five years.

For five consecutive years the Harding-Bucyrus game has resulted in defeat for the local crew. Harding High, last year and the previous season, had teams that were said to be capable of trimming Bucyrus but when the time came, Marion fans received the usual disappointment. Harding lost consistently. No matter how bad the Marionites have trounced other teams in the past, they have not been able to down Bucyrus.

Still Waiting

Marion basketball fans are anxiously awaiting the day when a Harding basketball aggregation will kick over the dope bucket, kill the jinx, and crush the Crawford County hoopsters.

Friday night, Harding High will either suffer the sixth consecutive defeat in as many years from Bucyrus or will win the first tilt in six years. What are chances for the long awaited victory this year?

Not So Bright!

At present, things do not look so bright for Coach Compton's proteges. With the Bucyrus game only a day away, Joe Rinnert is out of basketball for some time with an injured ankle, sustained in a practice session a few days ago. Rinnert, one of the letter men from last year, has been going good so far this season and his loss means the loss of an all-round man.

And Harding High must snap out of its stage fright if it expects to win games this season. The team is composed of many who did not play basketball until this year but after two big high school games, the greenness should begin to wear off.

Stage Fright Fatal

Harding cagers won the Lima Central battle here, although they suffered stage fright in the first few minutes and allowed the visitors to get the jump on them and pile up a large number of points before the first quarter was well under way. They pulled out of the fright before it was too late, however, and won the fray. At Mansfield, the local lads did not regain their composure soon enough to win, although they did come back strong in the second half.

If Harding does not again get stage fright tomorrow night, and they should not, Bucyrus will have a battle on hand even if Joe Rinnert is unable to play. Harding High has a group of fighters that will always have in mind the fact that the locals have not defeated Bucyrus for five years. With this thought prevailing, it will take a real crew of eagemen to down the Marionites.

Bucyrus Has Good Team

Bucyrus has one of the best teams developed in Crawford County for years. The quintet has played eight games and have won seven of this number. Last week, the Moeller team romped over Galion for a 37 to 22 victory on Galion's court. It has been defeated only by Lima South so far this season.

Kish, famous football flash, is the star of the Bucyrus team and will be the principal man to represent the Crawford County outfit on the court, Friday.

Among Harding's group are Gillis, Garrett, Cram, Evans, Shults, Willey, Gilmore, Born, Stafford and a number of other youths who have seen action this season.

MEET IN MONTREAL

This year's championship meet of the Intercollegiate Winter Sports Union will be held in Montreal on March 4, with McGill University as host.

Movin' On

George Harper, after 10 years in the big show and nearing the end of his career, finds himself a member of the New York Giants, his goal when he set out on baseball's highway.

GEORGE HARPER

He was traded to the Giants in the recent cross-wise trade with the Phils, Dodgers and Buffalo club.

Harper, an outfielder, broke into the game with Paris, Texas, in the Texas-Oklahoma League in 1913 and played with Kansas City and Ft. Worth before getting a chance with the Tigers in 1916. Remained with Detroit until the 1918 season, when he was sent to St. Paul. Later he played with Oklahoma City and then went back to the big show as a member of the Cincl Reds. Phils acquired him from Reds in 1924 in exchange for Curtis Walker. Had his best year in 1925. Was a holdout last season and when he did report was stricken with appendicitis.

Isaly Dairies Will Meet Wilmington College Tonight in Star Auditorium

Isaly Dairies tonight will clash with the second college team to appear on the Star Auditorium this season when they take on the hustling Wilmington College crew. Coach "Shifty" Bolen and his gang left Wilmington Tuesday on a trip through this section of Ohio and are all set for the game here tonight.

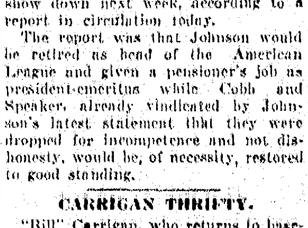
The battle tonight should feature a grand come-back by the Dairies after a terrible slump during the last few weeks. The Isaly team has held a couple of practice sessions since the defeat at the hands of the Lorain Lions last week and are prepared to fight for a victory.

Wilmington College will bring to this city one of the fastest basketball outfits in captivity. The players are noted for their accurate passing and basket shooting. All members of the crew hail from cities and villages of Ohio.

Cal Zigler leads the Wilmington cagers and will show anybody a merry chase. "Cal" will be remembered as the star on the Columbus East team a few years ago. He plays center.

A large number of Green Camp rooters are expected to attend the game. Paul Furniss of that village, plays forward on the Wilmington quintet. Furniss graduated from Harding High several years ago. Bruzzie Williams of Lima South also plays forward on the visiting five. "Chuck" Weimer, basketball flash from London, O., holds down a guard position.

"Johnny" Metcalfe plays either guard or forward. He is six feet in height and is like a streak of lightning on the court. He is an excellent shot and makes his points by a swift "follow in." Johnny played both guard last season, where he learned the habits of close guarding. His ability as a good basket shot, however, at times earns him the position of forward.



"JOHNNY" METCALFE

Metcalfe is a graduate of Hamilton High where he captained both football and basketball teams.

The preliminary event between the Midway Lunches and Edison cagers promises to be the best game of the season in which the Midways have participated. Last week, the Edison team defeated the Midway five at Edison and this week the Midways are out to avenge the trimming administered by the visitors.

The Midways have won the majority of their games and have not yet lost a home contest. The team is one of the best in this vicinity and provides real basketball entertainment. Former Harding High stars compose the line-up with Yazel, Geissler, Johnson, Merkle, Burke and McWhorter being the chief performers.

The preliminary game tonight will get under way at 7:15 while the Isaly fray will be called at 8:15 o'clock.

PLAY INITIAL GAMES IN NEW VOLLEYBALL LEAGUE

Teams Led by Hildebrandt, Clark and Murphy Are Winners

Teams captained by Hildebrandt, Murphy and Clark were winners in the first volleyball games of the new six-team league formed by F. O. Rudolph, physical instructor of the Y. M. C. A. The first games were played last night on the Y. M. C. A. floors.

Hildebrandt's volleyballers defeated Brown's team 42 to 17 in the first clash. Murphy's crew won the second tilt from Coulter, 34 to 28. Clark's outfit had little trouble in defeating Cunninghain, 38 to 27.

The new volleyball league was formed following the closing of the Business Men's regular league, which was won by Bob Stief and his volleyballers last Wednesday night.

Two teams have been taken from the regular Business Men's League and members are practicing for the representative organization of Marion. The big team will begin booking games in the near future. It was state champion last year.

Baseball Stars Almost Certain To Be Exonerated

New York, Jan. 20—Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker are almost certain to be "exonerated and restored to good standing" as a result of the Johnson-Landis show down next week, according to a report in circulation today.

The report was that Johnson would be retired as head of the American League and given a pensioner's job as president-emeritus while Cobb and Speaker, already vindicated by Johnson's latest statement that they were dropped for incompetence and not dishonesty, would be, of necessity, restored to good standing.

CARRIGAN THRIFTY.

"Bill" Carrigan, who returns to baseball next season in his old position as manager of the Boston Red Sox, is known as one of the thriftiest men in the game. It is said that "Bill" still retains his interest in a little cigar store which he bought with his first earnings in baseball.

FIRESTONE FIVE BEATS SHOVELS IN RETURN TILT

Win Fast Game, 34 to 28, on Akron Court Last Night

Meeting the Marion Steam Shovels on the Akron court last night, the Firestones of that city came through with a snap in the last half and defeated the local quintet, 34 to 28. The Shovels trounced the Firestones here a week ago by a 39 to 22 score.

The half ended in a 15 point tie but the Shovels were unable to keep up the pace in the last quarter and went down before one of the greatest floor machines in the state.

More than a third of the points scored by the Akron quintet were made on free throws. Spradling chalking up six points through charity. The famous Spradling received only two field goals while Griggs, Firestone center, starred with four field goals and three free throws.

Every man on the Steam Shovels played hands-up basketball. Applegett connected for four field goals while Wilson, Schwab, and Bohyer each caged three. Manager Bacon was in the fray only a short time. Compton played a neat defensive game.

The locals were working under the handicap of making the long trip to Akron yesterday afternoon and also felt the effects of the tough game with the Buffalo Lincolns on the preceding night.

Manager Bacon announced today that the Shovels will play the well-known Millard quintet of Springfield here next Thursday night. The visitors will bring a team composed of former Ohio State and Wittenberg stars.

MIDGETS AND CENTRAL JUNIORS CLASH FRIDAY

Annual Battle Scheduled Between Two Marion Junior Quintets

The big Marion Junior basketball game of the year is due Friday night. Central Junior High basketeers will take on the Midgets of this city in the annual battle.

When the Midgets stack up against the Central Juniors Friday night they will face a team that has defeated them for three consecutive years. The Junior team is a jinx for the Midget crew and it is a tough jinx.

The Midgets have the best team ever playing under that name this year while the Central Juniors are not quite as good as in previous seasons. Centrals last year defeated the Midgets in the finals of the Class B tourney held at the Y. M. C. A. and Capt. Williams announces that he will send his original five Midgets into the battle Friday night. The original Midgets are Williams and Anthony, forwards; Hurraman, center, and Lowe and Morrison, guards.

A new face will be seen in the Midget lineup Friday when Forest Conklin will probably get into the skirmish before the end of the game. He comes from the Vocational Preps and was high scorer last year.

The Central Juniors are ready for the fray and hope to add another Midget scalp to their belt.

WATSON MEETS LATZO

One-Step Watson, the Omaha negro battler who made quite a reputation for himself by fighting a draw with Eddie Roberts, will get a chance at the welterweight crown on February 2, when he is to meet Pete Latzo, the present titleholder, in a twelve-round contest at Newark, N. J.

OSBORN TO APPEAR

Harold Osborn, the world champion high jumper, will make his first Eastern appearance at the Knights of Columbus games in Boston on Jan. 22.

FIDEL LA BARBA GETS HEAVY ODDS

New York, Jan. 20—Fidel La Barba, Pacific Coast flyweight today was an almost unanimous choice to defeat Elky Clark, European champion, in their world's title fight at twelve rounds tomorrow night. There were rumors that La Barba was having trouble in making the required weight of 112 pounds at two o'clock tomorrow afternoon but Clark's unimpressive showing in training nullified the effect of these reports and the defending champion was made an 8 to 5 favorite in the betting.

Martel to Play Pleasant Township Boys; Prospect Will Meet LaRue Teams

Green Camp Boys Should Have Little Difficulty with Morral; Claridon Girls Will Tackle Pleasant Quintet on Martel Floor; Prospect Girls Favored

By EDDIE SCHOENLEB
Sports Editor, The Star

PROBABLY the most interesting game in the Marion County High School leagues Friday will be the clash between Martel and Pleasant Township boys at Martel. Pleasant girls will meet Claridon girls on the Martel floor. Both games are scheduled as league games in the east section of the county. The games were to have been played Dec. 3 but were postponed at that time.

In the west section Prospect will likely hand LaRue boys a walloping and Green Camp will step all over Morral boys. Both games should feature lop-sided scores if previous records this season illustrate the ability of the Prospect and Green Camp teams and the inability of the Morral and LaRue crews.

Green Camp Favored

Morral boys have lost three games so far while Green Camp is perched high and dry on top of the league with three victories and no defeats. Green Camp will go to Morral Friday night and, while that may hinder their playing to some degree, it will far from stop them from winning unless Morral carries a rabbit foot and kicks over the dope bucket.

Green Camp girls are in for a trouncing tonight. Morral girls, leading the league with two victories and no defeats will without a doubt keep the slate clean Friday against the visitors. Morral girls have been performing in commendable fashion and are expected to keep it up.

Prospect girls will likely win from LaRue on the home floor Friday, although neither team has shown a great deal of fight this season.

The Martel-Pleasant Township battle at Martel Friday night should be one of the best in the east section of the county so far this season if Martel does not run away with the visitors. Martel boys have won two games and are tied in percentage with Caledonia in the league standing. Should the Martel lads win Friday night, they will be sitting pretty and on equal terms with the strong Caledonia outfit.

Favor Pleasant Girls

Pleasant Township girls are favored to win the game with Claridon but it is not known in just what manner the Pleasant ladies will perform away from their home floor. At present they are sitting on top of the world or rather—on top of the league in the east section. They have won two games and expect to keep the slate as clean as possible Friday night.

Games in the county last week resulted in victories for Green Camp, Prospect and Caledonia boys and wins for Pleasant and LaRue girls. Green Camp boys trounced LaRue 45 to 8 while the LaRue girls chalked up a victory over the Green Campers. Prospect boys wiped up the floor with Agosta. Caledonia boys defeated Pleasant Township and Pleasant girls turned the tables on the Caledonia crew.

DEMPSEY MUST FIGHT SURVIVOR OF SERIES

Rickard Replies to Rumor That Dempsey Is to Meet Tunney

New York, Jan. 20—Jack Dempsey either must fight the ultimate survivor of the Delaney-Sharkey-Maloney heavyweight series or forfeit his immediate chance for a return whatever-it-was with Gene Tunney for the championship.

This, in effect, was Tex Rickard's reply today to stories in circulation that another Dempsey-Tunney meeting already was in the bag and that the present heavyweight tourney being a lot of applejack, Rickard was to convince that Dempsey would get the "shot" and the others would get the air, which generally can be found outside. The reply also might be designated as a commentary on Dempsey's recent allegation that he "wasn't interested" in Rickard's tournament.

It was, incidentally, the promoter's first attempt at rattling the sword as far as Dempsey is concerned, although Rickard wished to disclaim that such was his intention.

"Dempsey will be here in about three weeks," he said, "and I don't think we will have any trouble about what should be done next summer. Anyhow, anybody who says I am trying to easel Dempsey into another Tunney match without giving the other contenders a chance is merely trying to make trouble for me."

SAUNDERS AND KENNEDY LEAD PRO CAGE LEAGUE

Washington, Jan. 20—Saunders and Kennedy, both of Washington, led the professional basketball league in scoring for the season, up to and including the games on Jan. 18, it was announced here today.

Sanders led the league with 188 points, Kennedy two points behind at 186. Passon of Philadelphia was third with 176, and Hickey of Cleveland fourth with 171.

Jubilee was in bed when I got back. The bunch sure hoorawed when I told them about it, so I told the teacher about it, and I think she went around and told the other teachers. I bet he was supprized. I bet the horse was too.

Daily Bedtime Story

Uncle Wiggily and His Friends

"Are you going to be in the bungalow very long?" asked Mrs. Longears of her husband one afternoon.

"What do you mean?" asked Uncle Wiggily, giving a twiddling one ear at his wife. "Do you want to get rid of me?"

"Oh, not at all!" answered the rabbit lady with a laugh. "But Nurse Jane and I are going to the movies, and as the children are at school the bungalow will be all alone if you go out. I just wanted you to be sure and lock the door."

"I will," promised the rabbit gentleman. "I won't be going out for a little while, however," he told his wife as she and the muskrat lady housekeeper started off to the movies. "I want to think of where will be a good place to go and look for adventures," he said to himself, sitting down in a chair near a window, where he waved his paw to them as she turned the corner of the lane.

"Adventures are getting scarce," said the funny gentleman to himself as he walked around the kitchen. "I don't want to waste my time looking for them in places where there aren't any. I must think where will be a good place to go before I start out."

This happened to see the tea kettle on the back of the stove. He looked from that to the pantry where the tea was stored and then, in turn, Mr. Longears saw a tea cup and saucer, the pitcher of cream and the bowl of sugar.

"I'll make myself a cup of tea before I do anything," said Uncle Wiggily. "It will help me warm, for it is a cold day."

Filling the kettle with water, Uncle Wiggily set it on the front of the stove to boil, and while waiting for it to begin to sing, as all kettles do, the bunny went to the window to look out and see if it was snowing. Well, no white flakes were coming down, but Uncle Wiggily saw, coming toward his bungalow from the North, the Fuzzy Fox.

"Oh dear!" whispered the bunny. "Has bad luck!" Then he saw, coming from the south, the Woozie Wolf. "More bad luck!" sighed Mr. Longears. Looking from another window he saw skulking along, the Bob Cat, coming from the west, while from the east came the Bushy Bear.

"All the bad chaps are coming for me at once!" sighed the bunny. "There is no way to escape, for there are only four ways out of my bungalow, and the Bad Chaps are coming from all four directions. What shall I do?"

Just then the kettle began to boil and it seemed to sing:

"Ha! Ha! Ha! Tee! Hee! Hee! Invite them in and make them tea!"

"That's just what I'll do!" said Uncle Wiggily. "I'll surprise the Fox, Wolf, Bob Cat and Bear! I'll astonish them!"

Suddenly there came a tap on the north door. Uncle Wiggily hopped to open it, and to the Fox on the steps the bunny said:

"Come right in! I'm so glad you called! I'm just making a cup of tea and I invite you to have some! Come in!" The Fox did not expect to be greeted this way and hardly knew what to say. But he shuffled in. Then came a knock at the south door and Uncle Wiggily opened it to the Wolf.

"Come in! Come in!" invited the rabbit. "I'm just going to make a cup of tea and—"

"I didn't come for tea!" the Wolf began. I came for——"

"Oh, but you must have a cup of tea!" interrupted Uncle Wiggily and the Wolf was so surprised he didn't know what to say. Neither did the Bob Cat nor the Bushy Bear when they were let in. The four Bad Chaps had planned together to get the bunny, but when he opened the doors and let them in they didn't know what to think.

All of a sudden the kettle began to boil, and Uncle Wiggily exclaimed:

"Now to make the tea!" With that he took the kettle off the stove and he tipped it up so that hot water ran out of the spout and the hot water splashed on the Wolf, the Bob Cat, the Fox and the Bear. And their toes got so warm that they jumped up and down and had to run out in the snow to cool off. Oh how fast they ran!

"Aren't you going to stay and have a cup of tea?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

"No!" growled the Bear. "No!" snarled the Wolf. "No!" howled the Fox! "No! No! No!" yelped the Bob Cat and Uncle Wiggily had to drink his tea all alone. But he was just as well pleased, I think; dont you? Anyhow, if the black lead pencil doesn't turn red when it falls into the blue ink, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Buster's lasso.

The antiquity of auction sales is unsuspected by most people. Auctions were common among the Romans, one of the most famous proofs of this being afforded by the offering of Rome itself at auction by the Practorian Guard, after the murder of the Emperor Pertinax.

H. E. HILL SAYS LEGISLATURE TO RUSH BUSINESS

Claims Law Makers Agree To Ignore Proposals for Increases in Salaries

The state legislature has mapped out a program of procedure which is expected to dispose of practically all important business of the present session during the next four weeks, H. E. Hill, Marion County's representative in the House, who is here during the week-end recess of the assembly, stated today.

In arranging for the four weeks of intensive work and deliberation, leaders of the legislature have agreed that no proposals which would grant salary increases or create new governmental departments will be considered, the Marion County representative says.

"To Cut Expenses"

"While the legislature does not intend to handicap or restrict any branch of the state service by refusing to grant increased appropriations or additional help, it is determined to keep expenses at the lowest possible figure," Mr. Hill stated.

"It is the concensus of opinion among leaders of the general assembly that government operation and expense in Ohio have not been fully restored to normalcy following inflation which developed during and immediately after the war and that no marked innovations or changes tending to boost the expense budget should be authorized until conditions are more sound and stable."

Already Ask Aid

Heads of various state departments have already presented requests for additional help and for salary increases but the legislators have turned a deaf ear to all such requests, Mr. Hill says.

Included among the most important matters to come before the legislature are proposals for changes and improvements in the management of the state's numerous penal and charitable institutions. Mr. Hill is chairman of the house committee which has supervision over the affairs of these institutions. He will return to Columbus, Monday, and take up the work of shaping up legislation coming before his committee in order that it may be included in the list of bills to be considered during the next four weeks.

OPTIMISM PREVAILS ON WALL STREET TODAY

Money Market Has Easier Tone; Stocks, Bonds Show Strength, Activity

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

New York, Jan. 20—Railroad stocks, steady; industrials, steady; domestic bonds, steady; foreign bonds, steady; call money, 4½ per cent; grain, steady; copper, steady; oil, steady; cotton, steady; rubber, steady; sugar, steady; pig iron, steady; foreign exchange, steady.

New York, Jan. 20—An easier tone in the money market; strength and activity in stocks and bonds; aggressive buying of some of the important commodities, and a strengthening of the bullish forces in Wall Street and the principal outside speculative centers, were the principal features of the financial situation today.

Confident that friendly relations would be continued with the Mexican Government, and that a solution of the Nicaraguan problem was near at end, Wall Street was inclined to look on the cheerful side of every factor affecting security prices. No alarm was occasioned by the unfavorable survey of the building situation by S. W. Straus, who cautioned against the continuance of the present rate of office and apartment buildings. Reports from the steel and motor industries were uniformly favorable.

A good share of the present buoyancy in industrial and railroad stocks is based on the prospects of melon-cutting in the former and important mergers and consolidations in the latter. The oil companies, now enjoying record-breaking earnings, are expected to follow the lead of the Texas Corporation, which announced a 10 per cent. stock dividend this week. Numerous industrial concerns may capitalize their huge earnings in 1925 and 1926. Progress has already been made in the railroad mergers, but the process has necessarily been a slow one.

Easy money conditions now prevail not only in America, but in all the important European financial centers, where six of the state banking institutions have marked down discount rates in the last few weeks. Call money was freely loaned at 4 per cent.

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Slowness of trade in all lines has been a marked feature of retail markets this week. Fruits and vegetables, meats and produce have been moving slowly, despite the variety and quality of the products displayed.

Seasonal sluggishness of the market is responsible for the drop in the amount of business. It is expected to pick up soon and increase gradually each week until normal business is reached.

Fresh vegetables and meats have been moving better than many other products on the market. Supplies of fresh vegetables have been strong, and prices steady to lower. There is a considerable quantity of homegrown vegetables, which have been kept in storage until now, and are appearing on the markets.

Amendment to Municipal Court Act To Be Presented to Ohio Legislature Monday

Representative H. E. Hill To Introduce Measure; Four Changes Proposed in Rules Governing City's New Tribunal

The bill providing for amendments to Marion's Municipal Court statute is to be introduced in the Ohio State Legislature next Monday, according to plans made public today by H. E. Hill, Marion County's representative in the House, who will sponsor the measure.

Before the proposal goes before the legislature it will probably be submitted to members of the Marion County Bar Association for consideration and approval. Action by the association is expected at a meeting planned to take place during the next few days.

Four Changes Sought

A draft of the bill, embracing four proposed changes in the original statute which created the local court and designated rules for its operation, was completed recently at a conference held by Municipal Judge William R. Martin, City Solicitor George T. Geran and former City Solicitor Grant E. Mouser. This tentative proposal will be gone over by bar association members with possibility of some minor changes and additions being made.

The bill, as drawn up by Martin, Geran and Mouser, includes four amendments, one establishing a uniform schedule of fees for civil suits coming before the court, another giving the mayor authority to appoint a substitute magistrate should the judge be kept from his post of duty through sickness or any other cause, another authorizing the judge to name a trustee for handling wage assignment cases, and one providing that revenue from fines in city criminal cases shall be placed in the general fund of the municipal treasury instead of the public safety fund.

Possible Changes

While it is believed that these four changes will remedy all of the most serious defects in the present statute, there is possibility that members of the bar association may have other amendments in mind and they will be given an opportunity to state their views, Mr. Hill indicated today.

Many Ohio Communities Threatened by Flood Waters

Excuses Popular 20 Years Ago Still Used by Truants

Boys still are boys and girls still are girls, the same as they were 20 years ago, regardless of how fast the world is going to ruin, Truant Officer Pearl H. Sells, claims.

"Pupils are still 'cutting' classes and using the same age-old excuses such as the 'clock was slow,' or 'I overslept.' Then, too, the 'trolley is sometimes late' or something happens to the Ford which makes many late," says Sells.

"Truancy, in relation to the increase in enrollment, is on the decrease," Sells says. "The great number of morning cases of truancy I find, is among the boys, while the ones in the afternoon are among the girls, who skip to go to afternoon shows," Sells claims.

"About 50 pupils are actually truants each month. Many boys and girls are kept home by parents to care for the baby, wash dishes, or help around the home. These cases are known as unnecessary absences. All absences, unless caused by sickness, are investigated.

"Sons and daughters of boys and girls who 'skipped' school 15 or 20 years ago enjoy school today," says Sells. "I think that if the parents would check up on their children more often and pay closer attention to the truancy marks on their cards there would be fewer cases."

RIVER LEVELS AFFECTED BY THAWS, RAINS

Transportation Lines Suffer in Several Sections of State

Cleveland, Jan. 20—An unseasonal thaw, accompanied by heavy rains, has brought a mid-winter flood threat to many parts of Ohio.

The Mahoning River at Alliance has reached flood stage and water is standing several inches deep on the Lincoln Highway east of that city.

Interurban tracks in several parts of Stark County have been inundated and transportation facilities crippled.

The Akron-Cleveland Bus Lines of the National Ohio Traction Company have been temporarily suspended, due to the impassibility of roads in many places.

The Tuscarawas River has risen to an alarming stage at Dover. Workmen were forced to dynamite an ice gorge to insure a water supply.

Lorain reports several factories facing shutdowns as flood waters backed into their boiler rooms.

OHIO RIVER TRIBUTARIES RISING

Columbus, Jan. 20—With Ohio rivers of the southern watershed approaching or past the flood stage, Weatherman Alexander today predicted flood stage for the Ohio River tributaries, and a flooding of the lowlands bordering on the Ohio River.

Reports from towns on the Ohio River near Cincinnati are not alarming, Alexander said, but with further rainfall expected tonight and Friday he expected the flood stage of 50 feet might be reached at Cincinnati sometime Friday when the flow of tributaries reach this stream.

At Coshocton the Kokosing River has reached the 25 foot stage while the flood stage is 20.5 feet.

The Scioto River at Circleville this morning stood at 10.4 feet, compared with a flood stage of 10 feet.

The Olentangy at Delaware, stood at 8.3 feet, and was rapidly approaching the flood stage of 9 feet.

At Athens the Hocking River gauge showed 14.5 feet and was expected to reach or pass the flood stage of 17 feet tonight or Friday.

At Zanesville the Muskingum River registered 20.5 feet with a flood stage of 25 feet.

COSHOCTON MAIL SERVICE PARALYZED

Coshocton, Jan. 20—Rural mail service in this district is paralyzed here today, and the villages of Keene, Roscoe and Canal Lewisville, are isolated as a result of the overflowing of the Walhonding River and the approach of the Muskingum to flood stage. The Coshocton-Millersburg State-rd and the Coshocton-Mt. Vernon Highway are under water.

CHILDREN MAROONED IN SCHOOLHOUSE

RICHARD M'KINNEY IS FOUND GUILTY BY JURY

Judge Scofield Expected to Pass Sentence on Colored Man Saturday

Richard McKinney, colored, found guilty of shooting with intent to kill by a jury in Common Pleas Court yesterday afternoon, will probably be sentenced Saturday by Judge George B. Scofield. Motion for a new trial will be filed, it was indicated by Fred Warner, his attorney.

McKinney was on the stand yesterday afternoon, and admitted entering the poolroom, where the shooting of Henry Johnson took place, with a gun in his hand. Prosecutor Frank Wiedemann brought this out in the cross examination of McKinney. McKinney said he carried the gun into the poolroom to protect himself, as he believed Johnson had a knife and was going to attack him, he testified. Ruth Wilson, the colored woman who had been living at McKinney's rooming house, was on the stand and told her story of the affair that led up to the shooting. She said that Johnson struck her after he had ordered her to get out of the automobile and come into the house. That was where the argument between Johnson and McKinney started that eventually led to the shooting, she testified.

The case went to the jury about 3 o'clock and a verdict was returned an hour later.

VOCATIONAL CLASSES OPEN AT HIGH SCHOOL

Twenty-Three Enroll in Wood and Machine Shop; 15 in Drawing

Vocation night classes under the direction of the vocational training department of the public schools got started last night, with 23 men in the wood and machine shop practice group and 15 men in the mechanical drawing group. The wood and machine shop practice class met at Harding High School, and the mechanical drawing class at Central Junior High School.

Actual work in the mechanical drawing class will not start until Monday. At the first session last Monday only 10 men turned out, which was not enough for the class. Last night, however, 15 men were present, and the class work was outlined, and plans made to start the study and practice next Monday night. A few more men can be taken into this class.

Roster Full

The wood and machine shop practice class is complete, and if more men desire to take up this work another class will be started and some of the men drafted from the first group to make two classes of the same size.

The popularity and worth of the wood and machine shop work is shown in the large number of men who return for the work after once taking it. This year there are several men in the class who have had training in three previous groups, and others have been in vocational night classes for the last two years. In the mechanical drawing group several men who have taken night class work before are back again this year for more training.
